American Security and the Global War on Terror Edwin Jacob, 2020-04-08 This book delivers an interpretive framework for making sense of today's geopolitical landscape and casts new light on the impact ideology and technology have had on American foreign policy and contemporary security practices Edwin Daniel Jacob argues that America's security practices in the Global War on Terror have been guided by an anachronistic Cold War logic that has subordinated strategy to tactics Jacob shows that deep rooted prejudices and presuppositions regarding American exceptionalism have had a disastrous impact on the policies of the United States not only in dealing with terrorism but also in seeking to impose American hegemony in the Middle East Ineffectual security practices of dubious moral character from rendition and torture to preemptive strikes and nation building to drones and assassinations privilege exigency over ethics Yet the result of this post strategic approach to security where interchangeable tactics like these masquerade as strategy only increases insecurity Jacob offers a fresh perspective on American foreign policy that links national security with human security in regional terms This approach highlights the need for order predictability and stability the cornerstone of political realism Making use of insights derived from Machiavelli Hobbes Marx Weber Schmitt and Morgenthau this interdisciplinary work provides an overview of American foreign policy in the twenty first century and speaks to crucial themes in the fields of history political science and sociology

French Colonialism Leonard V. Smith, 2023-07-06 France had the second largest empire in the world after Britain but one with very different origins and purposes Over more than four centuries the French empire explained itself in many different ways through many different colonial regimes Beginning in the early modern period a vast mercantile empire based on furs and fish in the New World and sugar cultivated by the enslaved in the Caribbean rose and fell At intervals thereafter the French seemed to have an empire simply as an attribute of a Great Power generally in competition with Britain Relatively few French people ever moved to the empire even to the settler colony of Algeria Under the Third Republic the French construed a civilizing mission melding selectively applied principles of democracy and colonial capitalism Two world wars and two anticolonial wars broke French imperial power as it had previously existed yet numberless traces of the French empire lived on both in the former colonies and in today's French Republic This narrative history recounts the unique course of the French empire questioning how it made sense to the people who ruled it lived under it and fought against it

The Politics of Trade in Latin American Development Steven E. Sanderson, 1992 In this innovative synthesis and reconstruction of the role of trade in Latin American development the author asks what have been the political terms of trade in Latin America and why have they differed so much from the multilateral and national trade politics of the advanced capitalist countries especially the United States He shows in great detail how a new conceptual approach to this question can help us to understand why and with what limits Latin America now seems ready to accept the mantle of free trade This book is a unique attempt to link some of the most provocative hypotheses from the literatures of international trade development regional economic history and resource management to national politics in Latin America It takes a fresh look at old academic questions critiques the received knowledge on trade and offers some new data documents and indexes To the standard literature on Latin American trade the author adds insights and information from other literatures resource conservation poverty alleviation and national development strategies to name a few The current trend toward looking at constraints and possibilities in the trade system is reshaped to ask familiar questions in a concrete empirical way What changes in development design come from external shock and under what conditions Does the pressure of the international system actually force Latin American countries to alter their rates and kinds of natural resource exploitation Can a political course of export promotion address the debt crisis effectively Are the multilateral trade
