

Safety Manual

The following precautions need to be taken when using any hand tools in the RPI Centrifuge Lab in order to promote a safe work environment and keep accidents as small and as infrequent as possible. In general, only use a tool for what it was originally designed to do. Also, be careful to inspect the tool before using it, as older and worn out tools become much more dangerous than a tool in good condition. It is also important to wear the proper safety protective equipment such as gloves or safety glasses whenever using any hand tools. Always remember to keep yourself and the other people working around you in mind when working with tools in the lab. It is important to be aware of your surroundings; not being aware of the position of coworkers is no excuse for an accident occurring in the lab.

Screwdriver:

- Never use a screwdriver as a chisel, as it might shatter and become a hazard.
- Always make sure the handle and shaft do not have any cracks and are in good condition before using a screwdriver.
- Never use a screwdriver as some sort of pry bar.
- Always take the time to find the right sized and right type screwdriver for the job, as this will make your work go by much quicker and also ensure the job gets done the safest way possible.

Hammer:

- Never use a hammer which has a loose or cracked handle, as the head may fly off and become a hazard.
- Ensure that the hammer is both the proper type and size for the job you are performing, as this will make your work go by much quicker and also ensure the job gets done the safest way possible.
- Never use a hammer with a chipped, cracked, or broken claw.
- When using a hammer, keep your motions short and compact, and try to avoid longer swings of the hammer. This will not only cause you to be more accurate with what you strike with the hammer, this will decrease the chance of you hitting something or somebody by accident at the top of the hammer stroke.

Saw:

- Ensure that the saw's teeth are sufficiently sharp, as a dull tool is much more dangerous than a sharp tool.
- Always be careful to cut in a direction that puts yourself and others out of harm whenever possible.
- Always use a vise or other means to secure your work, as this will make it both easier and safer to make a cut with a saw.

H. Hui, 2014-12-16 Comprehensive and accessible this book presents fundamental principles and applications that are essential for food production and food service safety It provides basic practical information on the daily operations in a food processing plant and reviews some of the industry s most recent developments Formerly titled Food Plant Sanitation this second edition discusses nine additional food processing industries and contains 14 new chapters Among others new topics include sanitation in food transportation and sanitation of fresh produce in retail establishments Safety and Health at Work, ILO-CIS Bulletin, 1991 Advances in Occupational Ergonomics and Safety Shrawan Kumar, 1998 Ergonomics touches every man woman and child each day of their lives whether they recognise it or not Ergonomics or lack of it plays a more significant role in the lives of about two thirds of the world s population over 10 years of age who work for one third of their lives to make a living There are 120 million occupational accidents and injuries and 200 000 fatalities each year according to WHO 95 Occupational accidents injuries and fatalities are undesired events The occupational activities are planned and designed and executed with a purpose under supervision but accidents are not Hence it stands to reason that better planning design and execution will help to reduce these undesirable outcomes One must also recognise that under global scheme of biological evolution the human beings were not designed to endure a life long exposure to artificial activities repetitively Thus occupational health problems are inevitable if we do not return to nature for our sustenance As a society we have chosen to live and work as we do In fact there is a far rapid evolution mutation and speciation of occupations than of any biological organism This places us in a situation where better planning design and execution of our occupational activities have become absolute necessity However since ergonomics is a modifier and not a causal factor its significance does not become immediately apparent to us Perhaps it is for this reason that even in developed world occupational health services are available to between 20% to 50% of the work force and less than 10% of the workforce in the developing countries Occupational health services are remedial approaches The rational wisdom of the human race should strive to get proactive control of undesirable outcomes through ergonomics Unfortunately it is sadly lacking even today On an optimistic note one can observe that its presence and application is slowly increasing Importers Manual USA Edward G.
