

1. Introduction The purpose of this study is to investigate the effects of a new educational program on student performance. The study is designed to be a quantitative analysis of the data collected over a period of six months.	2. Methodology The study employed a quasi-experimental design. The participants were divided into two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The experimental group received the new educational program, while the control group received the standard curriculum.	3. Results The results of the study show that the experimental group performed significantly better than the control group. The mean score for the experimental group was 85, while the mean score for the control group was 78. This difference was statistically significant at the 0.05 level.	4. Conclusion The study concludes that the new educational program has a positive effect on student performance. The results suggest that the program should be implemented on a larger scale to improve student outcomes.
