The YMCA in Late Colonial India Harald Fischer-Tiné, 2022-11-03 This book explores the history and agendas of the Young Men s Christian Association YMCA through its activities in South Asia. Focusing on interactions between American Y workers and the local population representatives of the British colonial state and a host of international actors it assesses their impact on the making of modern India. In turn it shows how the knowledge and experience acquired by the Y in South Asia had a significant impact on US foreign policy diplomacy and development programs in the region from the mid 1940s. Exploring the secular projects launched by the YMCA such as new forms of sport philanthropic efforts and educational endeavours The YMCA in Late Colonial India addresses broader issues about the persistent role of religion in global modernization processes the accumulation of American soft power in Asia and the entanglement of American imperialism with other colonial empires. It provides an unusually rich case study to explore how global civil society emerged in the late 19th and early 20th centuries how it related to the prevailing imperial world order and how cultural specificities affected the ways in which it unfolded. Offering fresh perspectives on the historical trajectories of America s moral empire Christian internationalism and the history of international organizations more broadly this book also gives an insight into the history of South Asia during an age of colonial reformism and decolonization. It shows how international actors contributed to the shaping of South Asia s modernity at this crucial point and left a lasting legacy in the region

Disarmament, Demobilisation and Reintegration of Ex-Combatants in Africa Ibrahim Bangura, 2023-07-17 This book critically examines the approaches to Disarmament Demobilisation and Reintegration DDR of ex combatants programming in Africa. Drawing on empirical evidence from across the continent the book investigates the different theories contextual realities and approaches that have informed the establishment and implementation of such programmes the opportunities they have provided for stability peace and security and the challenges with which they have contended. The book combines broader theoretical analysis with country specific case studies including Nigeria the Central African Republic South Sudan Somalia Liberia Sierra Leone Burundi Zimbabwe South Africa and the Democratic Republic of Congo. Overall the book asks how DDR programming has evolved in Africa what factors have contributed to the success or failure of DDR processes and what we can expect for DDR in Africa in the future. Where do we draw the line? Alexandra Parker, Samkelisiwe Khanyile, Kate Joseph, 2019-03-29 Graffiti is a controversial subject and fraught with ambiguities and contradictions. However the recent global success of artists such as

Banksy Melbourne's booming graffiti tourism and the rise of the creative city discourse have blurred the lines between what some regard as vandalism and some as public art. As such graffiti has increasingly become part of mainstream culture and in some countries has been promoted as a contributor to the urban environment. Thus as practices and perceptions of graffiti shift so does our need to better understand the role of graffiti in our urban environments. Through a case study of the Maboneng precinct this GCRO Occasional Paper investigates the contribution made by graffiti to tourism and public and private investment in the inner city of Johannesburg. The paper uses visual and spatial analyses of graffiti in Maboneng's development. The research shows the extent to which the Maboneng precinct is branded through urban aesthetics including graffiti and demonstrates that graffiti contributes to placemaking by creating meaningful or identifiable spaces. The analysis reveals graffiti's aesthetic value in the urban environment; it signifies the redevelopment of Maboneng, distinguishes the area at a local level from surrounding spaces and also projects a global aesthetic. Using this case study of Maboneng we hope to show how graffiti is leveraged in nurturing urban development, creative economies and tourism in the inner city. The Occasional Paper is comprised of two parts. The first half of the paper aims to understand the role of graffiti in its urban context. A first section examines the history of graffiti considering centuries old traditions of markings on walls, the intersection of graffiti with the birth of hip hop culture and in the South African context the role of graffiti in anti-apartheid protest politics. A further section explores the spectrum of graffiti aesthetics from text-based expressions to the murals of street art. A third section traces graffiti's complicated relationship to the urban environment with changing perceptions of graffiti as vandalism or a mode of urban dialogue or a form of outdoor gallery. The sections in this first half of the paper explore the transitions graffiti has made over time and highlight the fluid nature of graffiti both in space and in the way that it is conceived. They illustrate how graffiti once perceived as synonymous with urban blight and decay, vandalism and crime has over time gained a more legitimate social status for example through commissioned murals or the work of famed international artists in the process raising the question of who decides the aesthetic of the urban environment and who has a right to participate in the production of urban space. In the second half of the paper we focus on a case study of Maboneng in the City of Johannesburg. Maboneng is an area of redevelopment in Johannesburg's inner city established in 2009. The neighbourhood has transformed through investment in the public environment and the upgrading of dozens of buildings with a focus on the creative economy. Graffiti and street art are prevalent in the area and have contributed to the branding of the area as a creative space. Through a photographic essay and mapping we analyse the spatial and visual elements of graffiti in Maboneng exploring its various contradictions, themes, surfaces and the media used to create it. The detailed mapping examines different types of graffiti and their locality, density, scale and visibility. The case study shows in detail the relationship between graffiti and the local urban environment but also how graffiti relates to larger processes of urban and economic development in the city.
