Teaching U.S.-Educated Multilingual Writers Mark Roberge,Kay M. Losey,Margi Wald,2015-06-04 This volume was born to address the lack of classroom oriented scholarship regarding U S educated multilingual writers Unlike prior volumes about U S educated multilinguals this book focuses solely on pedagogy from classroom activities and writing assignments to course curricula and pedagogical support programs outside the immediate classroom Unlike many pedagogical volumes that are written in the voice of an expert researcher theorist this volume is based on the notion of teachers sharing practices with teachers All of the contributors are teachers who are writing about and reflecting on their own experiences and outcomes and interweaving those experiences and outcomes with current theory and research in the field The volume thus portrays teachers as active reflective participants engaged in critical inquiry Contributors represent community college college and university contexts academic ESL developmental writing and first year composition classes and face to face hybrid and online contexts This book was developed primarily to meet the needs of practicing writing teachers in college level ESL basic writing and college composition classrooms but will also be useful to pre service teachers in TESOL Composition and Education graduate programs

A Guided Inquiry Approach to Teaching the Humanities Research Project Randell K. Schmidt, Emilia N. Giordano, Geoffrey M. Schmidt, 2015-08-26 Aligned with the Common Core, this book enables teachers and librarians to develop lessons and workshops as well as to teach high school students how to research and write a humanities paper using a guided inquiry approach. Being able to use the inquiry process to successfully research, write, and prepare papers and other types of presentations is not only necessary for a student's preparation for collegiate work but is truly a requisite life skill. This book provides a solid guided inquiry curriculum for cultivating the skills needed to properly investigate a subject in the humanities: interrogate both textual and non-textual sources, interpret the information, develop an understanding of the topic, and effectively communicate one's findings. It is a powerful and practical guide for high school humanities teachers, school librarians, community college humanities teachers and librarians, and early college level humanities instructors as well as for high school and college students who want to learn how to conduct and write up humanities research. Part one comprises a teacher's practicum that explains the power of guided inquiry. Part two contains student's workshops with instructions and materials to conduct a guided humanities project and paper on the high school level. The third part provides materials for a professional development session for this assignment as well as assessment tools and other supplementary materials such as student handouts. Based on the authors' 15 years' experience in teaching guided inquiry, the 20 workshops in the book use a step-by-step constructivist strategy for teaching a sophisticated humanities project that enables college readiness.
