1. Question 1 (all three):

- Identify the research method used and outline two characteristics of the method [3 marks].
- Describe the sampling method used in the study [3 marks].
- Suggest one alternative or one additional research method that could be used to investigate the aim of the original study, giving one reason for your choice [3 marks].

Independent variable - variable which we expect to affect the outcome measure (DV)

Dependent variable - result of the effect of the IV

Correlational: IV - stress measured by a questionnaire, DV - maths test score

Experimental design: IV - cortisol injection (1 group - placebo, 2nd group - 10mg, 3rd group - 50mg), DV - maths test score

- Independent measures - random allocation of participants to each IV level
- Repeated measures - all participants take part in each condition

Independent measures - for each level of the IV, there is a different set of participants

Repeated measures - the same group of participants take part in all levels of the IV

Covert - when participants are unaware of the researcher observing them

Overt - when the participants are aware of the researcher observing them

Matched pairs - type of independent measures, but participants are pre-tested and then based on that allocated to a condition (no random allocation), for example they are given a maths test and then put into three groups based on the score

Capitelli, C.M. Ferreira, B.F. Gordiets, A.I. Osipov, 2013-03-09 Investigation of the kinetic processes occurring in the atmospheric gases and low temperature plasmas of such gases is of great interest for numerous areas of modern physics and chemistry These include discharge and laser physics physics of the ionosphere chemistry and optics of the atmosphere laser and plasma chemistry and nonequilibrium gas dynamics Further nonequilibrium gaseous media and low temperature plasmas formed from N₂ O₂ or N₂ O₂ mixtures are rich in active components such as O N and H atoms and ex cited metastable species which fostered the utilization of such nonequilibrium systems in a variety of new technologies At present several monographs devoted to the analysis of kinetic pro cesses in molecular gases and plasmas are available in the literature How ever most of these works deal only with general physical chemical kinetic aspects and do not provide an analysis of basic kinetic theory and detailed investigation of kinetic processes in N₂ O₂ and their mixtures A monograph devoted to such a thorough analysis for the atmospheric gases is still lacking in the literature The present book was written to fill in this gap The book can be considered as a natural development of two former mono graphs Non Equilibrium Vibrotional Kinetics ed by M Capitelli

Heteroepitaxial Semiconductors for Electronic Devices G.W. Cullen, C.C. Wang, 2013-11-11 Some years ago it was not uncommon for materials scientists even within the electronics industry to work relatively independently of device engineers Neither group had a means to determine whether or not the materials had been optimized for application in specific device structures This mode of operation is no longer desirable or possible The introduction of a new material or a new form of a well known material now requires a close collaborative effort between individuals who represent the disciplines of materials preparation materials characterization device design and processing and the analysis of the device operation to establish relationships between device performance and the materials properties The development of devices in heteroepitaxial thin films has advanced to the present state specifically through the unusually close and active interchange among individuals with the appropriate backgrounds We find no book available which brings together a description of these diverse disciplines needed for the development of such a materials device technology Therefore the authors of this book who have worked in close collaboration for a number of years were motivated to collect their experiences in this volume Over the years there has been a logical flow of activity beginning with heteroepitaxial silicon and progressing through the III V and II VI compounds For each material the early emphasis on material preparation and characterization later shifted to an emphasis on the analysis of the device characteristics specific to the materials involved
