Envisioning the Faculty for the Twenty-First Century Adrianna Kezar,Daniel Maxey,2016-09-12 The institution of tenure once a cornerstone of American colleges and universities is rapidly eroding Today the majority of faculty positions are part time or limited term appointments a radical change that has resulted more from circumstance than from thoughtful planning As colleges and universities evolve to meet the changing demands of society how might their leaders design viable alternative faculty models for the future Envisioning the Faculty for the Twenty First Century weighs the concerns of university administrators professors adjuncts and students in order to critically assess emerging faculty models and offer informed policy recommendations Cognizant of the financial pressures that have led many universities to favor short term faculty contracts higher education experts Adrianna Kezar and Daniel Maxey assemble a top notch roster of contributors to investigate whether there are ways to modify the existing system or promote new faculty models They suggest how colleges and universities might rethink their procedures for faculty development hiring scheduling and evaluation in order to maintain a campus environment that still fosters faculty service and student centered learning Even as it asks urgent questions about how to retain the best elements of American higher education Envisioning the Faculty for the Twenty First Century also examines the opportunities that systemic changes might create Ultimately it provides some starting points for how colleges and universities might best respond to the rapidly evolving needs of an increasingly global society

The Work Situation of the Academic Profession in Europe: Findings of a Survey in Twelve Countries Ulrich Teichler,Ester Ava Höhle,2013-03-22 This book presents the analysis of the representative survey about the academic profession in twelve European countries Higher education in Europe has experienced a substantial change in recent years Expansion progresses further the expectation to deliver useful contributions of knowledge to the knowledge society is on the rise and efforts to steer academic work through external forces and strong international management are more widespread than ever Representative surveys of the academic profession in twelve European countries show how professors and junior staff at universities and other institutions of higher education view the role of higher education in society and their professional situation and how they actually shape their professional tasks Academics differ across Europe substantially in their employment and working conditions their views and their activities Most of them favour the preservation of a close link between teaching and research and feel responsible for both theory and practice Most consider efforts to enhance academic quality and social relevance as compatible The overall satisfaction with their professional situation is rather high

Marginality in the Urban Center Peary Brug, Zachary S. Ritter, Kenneth R. Roth, 2018-12-22 This book examines the increasing marginalization of and response by people living in urban areas throughout the Western Hemisphere and both the local and global implications of continued colonial racial hierarchies and the often dire consequences they have for people perceived as different However in the aftermath of recent U S elections whiteness also seems to embody strictures on religion ethnicity country of origin and almost any other personal characteristic deemed suspect at the moment For that reason gender race and even class collectively may not be sufficient units of analysis to study the marginalizing mechanisms of the urban center The authors interrogate the social and institutional structures that facilitate the disenfranchisement or downward trajectory of groups and their potential or subsequent lack of access to mainstream rewards The book also seeks to highlight examples where marginalized groups have found ways to assert their equality No recent texts have attempted to connect the mechanisms of marginality across geographical and political boundaries within the Western Hemisphere
