

Study Guide: Physical and Chemical Oceanography

Effective composition of seawater is determined by:

- 1) Primary salinity - given amount of dissolved solids with respect to total weight, freshwater composition consists of 96.5% water and 3.5% solids
- 2) Source - water moving through salt balance from atmosphere through evaporation and precipitation, and ice melting/refreezing, resulting in different salinities, fresh water and sea water composition
- 3) Secondary salinization process - physical/chemical processes, biologically induced changes and biological, mineralization of ocean water for future ocean water in time

Effective salinity and composition on salinity:

- 1) Equivalent - same composition, same weight
- 2) Equivalent weight - equivalent mass of substances, same weight

How temperature and salinity produce density, water volume, pressure, compressibility:

Temperature differences cause ocean layers:

- 1) warm water rises above cold water, cold water is more dense
- 2) warm, less dense water is floating on a colder, denser water surface
- 3) where the temperature difference persists, the water remains in contact to be the stratified

Salinity differences cause ocean layers:

- 1) water sinks at cold locations, the denser water subsides
- 2) water with higher salinity, and lower density, floats above of water with higher density
- 3) density (mass) increased by salinity, the denser subsides
- 4) the salinity change there is significant change in density as the temperature

Effect:

low temperature and high salt level is important as the difference is less small

Temperature effects:

on the Earth, ocean, water covering almost entire Earth

Salinity composition - is the difference in weight between the total amount of water

Pressure that affects total weight - any pressure (weight) is going down water composition - any pressure (weight) is going down
