War and Society in Early Rome Jeremy Armstrong, 2016-04-08 This book combines the rich but problematic literary tradition for early Rome with the ever growing archaeological record to present a new interpretation of early Roman warfare and how it related to the city's various social, political, religious and economic institutions. Largely casting aside the anachronistic assumptions of late republican writers like Livy and Dionysius of Halicarnassus, it instead examines the general modes of behaviour evidenced in both the literature and the archaeology for the period and attempts to reconstruct based on these characteristics the basic form of Roman society and then to re-map that on to the extant tradition. It will be important for scholars and students studying many aspects of Roman history and warfare but particularly the history of the regal and republican periods.

Conversations with Catalogers in the 21st Century Elaine R. Sanchez, 2010-12-16. Authored by cataloging librarians, educators and information system experts, this book of essays addresses ideas and methods for tackling the modern challenges of cataloging and metadata practices. Library specialists in the cataloging and metadata professions have a greater purpose than simply managing information and connecting users to resources. There is a deeper and more profound impact that comes of their work: preservation of the human record. Conversations with Catalogers in the 21st Century contains four chapters addressing broad categories of issues that catalogers and metadata librarians are currently facing. Every important topic is covered, such as changing metadata practices, standards, data record structures, data platforms and user expectations, providing both theoretical and practical information. Guidelines for dealing with present challenges are based on fundamentals from the past. Recommendations on training staff, building new information platforms of digital library resources, documenting new cataloging and metadata competencies and establishing new workflows enable a real world game plan for improvement.

England Timothy Darvill, Jane Timby, Paul Stamper, 2002. Traveling around England is in many senses a journey back in time. On all sides and sometimes even under the road or footpath itself, there are fragments of the ancient past alongside the clutter of the modern world. Medieval villages, castles, ancient churches and Roman villas are commonplace and take us back to the time of Christ. And far older yet equally abundant are the barrows, hillforts, stone circles, camps, standing stones, trackways and other relics of prehistoric times. Now thanks to these three archaeologists, each a specialist in one of the three periods covered by the Guide, prehistoric, Roman and medieval readers have the chance to not only explore but to understand in context these fascinating sites and ruins. In addition to reporting on such well-known sites as Stonehenge and Hadrian's Wall and cities such as London and York which themselves offer a wealth of archaeological remains, the book also covers smaller, lesser-known sites throughout the country. An introductory section provides background to the monuments and a reference section provides definitions, further reading and information about museum collections. Finally, there are 200 photographs, plans and maps that depict and describe these ancient remains in detail.
