Abstract: This paper shows that the standard representation of a simple Lie algebra as a direct sum of irreducible representations is unique. The proof is based on the fact that the decomposition of a simple Lie algebra into irreducible representations is unique up to isomorphism. This is a well-known result in the theory of Lie algebras.

Keywords: child sexual abuse; disclosure; social support

These authors conclude that the results of this study suggest that the use of a single, standardized, self-report measure of social support may not be sufficient to capture the complexity of social support in the workplace. The authors suggest that future research should focus on developing more comprehensive measures of social support that take into account the specific needs and experiences of the population being studied.
