Who Understands Comics? Neil Cohn, 2020-11-12 Nominated for the 2021 Eisner Award for Best Academic Scholarly Work Drawings and sequential images are so pervasive in contemporary society that we may take their understanding for granted But how transparent are they really and how universally are they understood Combining recent advances from linguistics cognitive science and clinical psychology this book argues that visual narratives involve greater complexity and require a lot more decoding than widely thought Although increasingly used beyond the sphere of entertainment as materials in humanitarian educational and experimental contexts Neil Cohn demonstrates that their universal comprehension cannot be assumed Instead understanding a visual language requires a fluency that is contingent on exposure and practice with a graphic system Bringing together a rich but scattered literature on how people comprehend and learn to comprehend a sequence of images this book coalesces research from a diverse range of fields into a broader interdisciplinary view of visual narrative to ask Who Understands Comics

Processing interclausal Relationships Jean Costermans, Michel Fayol, 2014-03-18 During the last 10 years more and more linguistic and psycholinguistic research has been devoted to the study of discourse and written texts Much of this research deals with the markers that underline the connections and the breaks between clauses and sentences plus the use of these markers by adults and children in the production and comprehension of oral and written material In this volume major observations and theoretical views from both sides of the Atlantic are brought together to appeal to a wide range of linguists psychologists and speech therapists The volume presents contributions from researchers interested specifically in adult language and from others concerned with developmental aspects of language Some contributors deal primarily with production whereas others concentrate on comprehension Some direct their attention to oral discourse while others focus on written texts To preserve overall coherence however the contributors were given the following recommendations With regard to the level of linguistic analysis the emphasis should be on the clause level more particularly on the relationships between clauses Special emphasis should also be placed on linguistic markers e g connectives markers of segmentation punctuation An overview of a given field of research should be offered and current research should be put into perspective For contributors in the developmental field attention should be paid to the fact that an account of the acquisition of some language functions throughout childhood should be included only if general principles of interclause relations that might be masked by the exclusive examination of adult evidence could be derived from it

Women in Wartime Geraldine Howell,2019-03-07 This book is open access and available on www.bloomsburycollections.com It is funded by Knowledge Unlatched Picture Post magazine was made famous by its pioneering photojournalism which vividly captured a panorama of wartime events and the ordinary lives affected This book is the first to examine this fascinating primary source as a cultural record of women s dress history Reading the magazine s visual narratives from 1938 to 1945 it weaves together the ways in which design style and fashion were affected by and responded to the state of being at war and the new gender roles it created for women From the working class of Whitechapel to the beach sets of the Bahamas and from well heeled Mayfair to middle class New York Women in Wartime takes a wide angled lens to the fashions and lifestyles of the women featured in Picture Post Exploring the nature of femininity and the struggle to be fashionable during the war the book reveals critical connections between clothing and social culture Drawing on a unique range of photographs

Women in Wartime presents a living history of how women's clothing choices reflect changing perceptions of gender, body and class during an era of unprecedented social change. An Autism Casebook for Parents and Practitioners Shoshana Levin Fox, 2020-12-29 Drawing from the author's extensive clinical experience, this autism casebook offers stimulating reflections and a fresh perspective on how we assess, diagnose and ultimately treat young children thought to be autistic. Challenging what she perceives as the rampant over-diagnosis and misdiagnosis of autism and the commonly accepted status of autism as an unchangeable trait, Dr. Levin Fox illustrates how the developmental play strategies of DIR/Floortime combined with the creative psychological perspective of Reuven Feuerstein create an effective way of identifying the child's strengths behind the autistic symptoms. The chapters are an accessible mix of clinical insights, theoretical reflections and vivid case stories that argue and illustrate that qualitative assessment methods based on play have the power to yield a more accurate clinical understanding of a child's difficulties and strengths than conventional symptom-focused autism assessment methods. This engaging casebook will stimulate practitioners, educators and students in the field of autism to question commonly held assumptions when assessing and treating autistic children, as it both urges and illustrates more reflective practice. Parents of children considered autistic will find renewed encouragement and hope in these enlightening case stories. Pre-School

Educational Activities Mr. Rohit Manglik, 2023-03-23 Focuses on learning activities and pedagogy for preschoolers. Pretending and Imagination in Animals and Children Robert W. Mitchell, 2002-02-21 It is well known that children's activities are full of pretending and imagination, but it is less appreciated that animals can also show similar activities. Originally published in 2002, this book focuses on comparing and contrasting children's and animals' pretenses and imaginative activities. In the text, overviews of research present conflicting interpretations of children's understanding of the psychology of pretense and describe sociocultural factors which influence children's pretenses. Studies of nonhuman primates provide examples of their pretenses, and other simulative activities explore their representational and imaginative capacities and compare their skills with children. Although the psychological requirements for pretending are controversial, evidence presented in this volume suggests that great apes and even monkeys may share capacities for imagination with children, and that children's early pretenses may be less psychological than they appear. Teaching Reading and Phonics to
