

COURSE SYLLABUSPSYC 200*General and Biological*Course Description:

A study of biological principles of psychology, growth and disease with emphasis on application to human life. Topics are presented from anatomical and biological viewpoints at length a biological perspective. Knowledge acquired in this course will apply to further knowledge and research about thinking skills in neuroscience. Please consult course description.

Objectives:

At the end of approved general education science course that includes general biological, molecular, physiological topics. This course will provide the basis of scientific knowledge needed to discuss biological systems and scientific advances. It will also transfer with the general biological science credit to other non-scientific disciplines as general biological, molecular, physiological, etc.
