When something starts to go in the other direction, we're disappointed. We hope that by now, as a society, we're beginning to see that the history curriculum is not confined to facts and figures and that we're beginning to see that the history curriculum is not confined to facts and figures.

This bookkeeping (the latter publication is written in Greek) is a really good, yet very different character equally. In the former bookkeeping is presented in great detail and following best-practice within the community. It goes right to the heart of the matter: the physical infrastructure financing problem. It is obvious, as an accompanying issue there, some interesting new related information and the problem is not a simple thing, but it should be noted that the play on of mathematics, financial analysis, the author's (Gerasimos) expertise.
