Assessment of Reading in International Studies Jenny Lenkeit, Knut Schwippert, 2020-05-21. This book brings together contributions from different scholarly contexts that address a diverse range of focused topics as well as empirical and conceptual perspectives on research with international studies. Some chapters focus on technical aspects exploring opportunities for drawing causal inferences from the data and investigating biases originating in distributional scale properties. Others are of a more conceptual nature, addressing changes in the relevance of socio-economic indicators across time and countries, examining the exposure of mother tongue and English instruction on performance and investigating the effects of test construction on gender difference. Government support towards the additional living costs of working-age disabled people Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Work and Pensions Committee,2012-02-19 The Government's Welfare Reform Bill includes measures to introduce a new benefit in 2013 the Personal Independence Payment PIP will replace Disability Living Allowance DLA for working age claimants to help meet the additional living costs of disabled people A new eligibility assessment process will also be brought in But this report finds that the Government should not introduce Personal Independence Payment PIP assessments nationally until it has satisfied itself in the planned initial roll out of the new assessment in a limited geographical area that the assessment is empathetic and accurate The report highlights a number of areas of concern The current draft criteria on which the assessment will be based are still too reliant on a medical model of disability and may fail to take sufficient account of the impact of social practical and environmental factors such as housing and access to public transport on disabled people's ability to participate in society and the additional costs they therefore incur The Committee believes that the Government should listen to the views of disabled people and their representative organisations and conduct a further trial before the criteria are adopted and the new assessment is introduced Once the initial assessments for PIP have been completed in the first geographical area the Government should look again at the value of face to face assessments for PIP claims where claimants conditions are severe and unlikely to change It is also important that DWP gets the contracting process with the private suppliers right On the Learning of Chinese ,2010-01-01 Although more people speak Chinese than any other language on Earth proficiency in Chinese is largely confined to the people who live in or adjacent to the Chinese Mainland and Taiwan and to the ethnic Chinese inhabitants of the various Chinatowns in countries around the world Despite its allure many people find Chinese a hard language to learn including a considerable number of children who learn it as mother tongue The basic units of written Chinese are ideographic symbols called characters and the meaning and pronunciation of each character is determined by the tone attached to it by the speaker Facing the very large number of Chinese characters and words it seems impossible for learners regardless of their native language to master the language other than via rote memorization The attempt to facilitate the route to proficiency in Chinese has understandably attracted the attention of numerous psycholinguistic researchers and educators Using the Theory of Variation as the primary learning framework the authors of this book conducted a number of large scale and robustly designed studies to investigate the relationship between the learning and teaching of Chinese mostly among native speakers However we believe that the results are applicable to the learning of Chinese as a second language Studies into ways of understanding the phonological and orthographical acquisition of characters are reported ways of helping learners come to terms with reading Chinese a textual language that does not always correspond word for word with the spoken discourse are explained and the implications of the evidence for Chinese curriculum and syllabus design are pointedly addressed by the contributors The authors believe that there are effective ways to become skilled in Chinese and that learning Chinese can be pleasurable and interesting They provide empirical evidence for educators parents policymakers and readers interested in Chinese language education They also illuminate the path to the mastery of Chinese in schools and how Chinese should be taught in today s world

Principles of Ecosystem Stewardship F Stuart Chapin III, Gary P. Kofinas, Carl Folke, 2009-06-12 The world is undergoing unprecedented changes in many of the factors that determine its fundamental properties and their influence on society. These changes include climate change, the chemical composition of the atmosphere, the demands of a growing human population for food and shelter and the mobility of organisms and natural products, cultural perspectives and information flows. The magnitude and widespread nature of these changes pose serious challenges in managing the ecosystem services on which society depends. Moreover, many of these changes are strongly influenced by human activities so future patterns of change will continue to be influenced by society's choices and governance. The purpose of this book is to provide a new framework for natural resource management: a framework based on stewardship of ecosystems for human well-being in a world dominated by uncertainty and change. The goal of ecosystem stewardship is to respond to and shape change in social-ecological systems in order to sustain the supply and opportunities for use of ecosystem services by society. The book links recent advances in the theory of resilience, sustainability and vulnerability with practical issues of ecosystem management and governance. The book is aimed at advanced undergraduates and beginning graduate students of natural resource management as well as professional managers, community leaders and policy makers with backgrounds in a wide array of disciplines including ecology, policy studies, economics, sociology and anthropology.
