There is no right or wrong way to reflect on your practice. Different people learn in different ways and while one person may learn by reflecting on a positive outcome, another may find it most useful to focus on a situation they found challenging.

Below we have provided some prompts to help you add value to your reflection.

Some prompts will be more relevant than others depending on your event, your practise and whether you are reflecting as a group or an individual.

What event or topic are you reflecting on? Give a brief description. You don't need to give all the details, but rather focus on the event itself. Too broad a focus can make it difficult to give the topic the attention it needs and might be hard to give direction to your reflection, especially if you are reflecting in a group setting and everyone will want to make input. Remember to keep things confidential.
Would you call this a positive or challenging event? What feelings would you use to describe the event? Even when things go right, they can still be challenging. Think about the outcomes of this event and whether you feel they could have been improved.
What happened? Give a brief description of the event How did you respond? How did your team respond? What did you feel during the event? What did you feel afterwards?
Looking back Are you satisfied with how you responded? If not, why not? Do you think you worked effectively with your colleagues? If not, what would help effective work in the future? Did you had all the support you needed? If not, what would have helped? If in a group, was the group satisfied with how it responded? If not, why not? Did the group work as an effective team?
Looking forward If there is a similar event in the future, would you do anything differently? What did you learn from this experience and/or your reflection on it?
