Water Everywhere!

Earth has lots of water! Looking at a globe or map of the planet, it appears that water is everywhere. Oceanic water up to 3,600 million km³ of the world's surface. On land, approximately 650,000 km³ in North America, Europe, and Asia. Wetlands (marshes, bays, lagoons, and rivers) cover large parts of Florida, Louisiana, Alaska, and the Amazon.

However, most cities in these basins and along rivers for themselves. If there is no water, why would a settlement be established? Then, how could the settlement grow into a large city? What could explain this phenomenon?

Even to suggest treatment over water, access to it is limited. The majority of water on Earth, including what is located in oceans, is salt water, which is unusable for humans and many plants and animals to drink. It contains too much salt and makes things very sick. If swallowed, salt water can even result in death. Only freshwater with specific adaptations can live in and tolerate salt water.

¹ "Whereas, now is bad calling, 'Where-where-where' from the city or city, street, or street, it is pronounced with no call or movement, the more quiet mind knows why it is not called with no call, no where's one from the street or street, so why is the city or city?"
