Act 2: Personal Response & Review Guide

the first depicting Juliet that he has been asked for "Queen Mab," "the fairest and wisest" who "sits in a little coach made of 'empty hazelnuts'" and who "presents" ideas to their children's "dreams." (Shakespeare) In the face of sleeping women, in this way, he, Mercutio, is his eloquence and vivid imagination to prompt Romeo and others to look through their eyes. Mercutio reassures him that dreaming about Rosaline is foolishness, when there are so many other beautiful women. Furthermore, when the unjustly killed nurse comes to visit the Romeo's balcony in act II, scene IV, Mercutio teases with her.

While Mercutio has a playful and witty side, he is also an honest, loyal, and different character. His allegiance lies wholeheartedly with the Montagues and especially Romeo. In the marketplace brawl earlier in act II, scene I, Mercutio grows frustrated when Romeo refuses to fight the Capulet enemy, Tybalt. He swiftly takes Romeo's place and duels with Tybalt. His sudden and ironic death results in his death—Romeo steps in to stop the fight, and Tybalt fatally stabs Mercutio under Romeo's arm. At the end, Mercutio wishes "a plague on both your houses," illustrating his ever-changing nature and his capacity for both loyalty as well as revenge.

Act 2: Personal Response Questions

Remember, we value our students' opinions and may vary. The commenting below should help you / guide you to constructively respond to students' opinions / engagement with the text:

1. Mercutio and Romeo have different views of love. Whose did you agree with more? Explain fully.

Romeo's view of love:

Romeo is one of the titular characters in Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. He is a young man. He is the only son of Lord and Lady Montague, nobles of Verona. Although well liked, he is also immature, impulsive, and reckless. His love for Juliet throughout the play is true, though not necessarily the wisest decision he makes for her. Simply put, he is enamored with the idea of love. Although he tells his father and his friends that he is serious about his friends, he enjoys joking with them, especially Mercutio. He is very physically fit and double entendre, and he gets very easily in and out of his romantic fantasies.

At the start of the play, Romeo's friends notice that he is not acting like himself. They want him to know that Romeo is serious. He is usually so free with double entendre, a character never being so close.
