

Commentary

The first sentence tells us the title, author, type of essay, topic, and thesis, with an observation that the thesis comes toward the end (inductive structure). Finding the thesis in personal writing can be especially demanding, because, in many cases, personal essayists use inductive or implicit central assertions (see Chapters 6 and 8). Notice that you can determine the thesis in this case by using the tip in your textbook to turn the essay title into a question and to read for an answer. Ask yourself what is the significant point about an anorexic's recovery. The significant thing, according to Rutherford's memoir, is that real healing requires the subject's will to heal herself or himself. The summary writer places this assertion at the opening of the summary, but otherwise follows the author's order of points, selecting just those that relate to the thesis. At the end of the summary, the writer quotes five telling words that reinforce the thesis. Because other words have not been quoted, these five gain extra weight. Note the use of third person, present tense, and impartial language. No evaluation of the essay occurs.

No Two Summaries Are Exactly Alike

We now give two somewhat different summaries of "The Rhetorical Stance." These were written by two different readers who did not compare notes or confer with each other in any way regarding interpretation. The two versions may help to illustrate the range of difference that is bound to occur between any two summaries of the same essay, as well as the essential congruence that should occur for successful summarization. Read our following commentary for a critique of these summaries as well as more information on how they were constructed.

Using Corpus Methods to Triangulate Linguistic Analysis Jesse Egbert, Paul Baker, 2019-09-17 This book builds on Baker and Egbert's previous work on triangulating methodological approaches in corpus linguistics and takes triangulation one step further to highlight its broader applicability when implemented with other linguistic research methods. The volume showcases research methods from other linguistic disciplines and draws on ten empirical studies from a range of topics in psycholinguistics, applied linguistics, and discourse analysis to demonstrate how these methods might be most effectively triangulated with corpus linguistic methods. A concluding chapter synthesizes these findings as a means of pointing the way toward future directions for triangulation and its implications for future linguistic research. The combined effect reveals the potential for the triangulation of these methods to not only enhance rigor in empirical linguistic research but also our understanding of linguistic phenomena and variation by studying them from multiple perspectives, making this book essential reading for graduate students and researchers in corpus linguistics, applied linguistics, psycholinguistics, and discourse analysis.

Analytical Essays on Music by Women Composers: Secular & Sacred Music to 1900 Laurel Parsons, Brenda Ravenscroft, 2018-09-04 Through musical analysis of compositions written between the mid twelfth to late nineteenth centuries, this volume celebrates the achievements of eight composers: all women: Hildegard of Bingen, Maddalena Casulana, Barbara Strozzi, Elisabeth Jacquet de la Guerre, Marianne Martines, Josephine Lang, Fanny Hensel, Clara Schumann, and Amy Beach. Written by outstanding music theorists and musicologists, the essays provide fascinating in-depth critical analytic explorations of representative compositions, often linking analytical observations with questions of meaning and sociohistorical context. Each essay is introduced by a brief biographical sketch of the composer by the editors. The collection, Volume 1 in an unprecedented four-volume series of analytical studies on music by women composers, is designed to challenge and stimulate a wide range of readers. For academics, these thoughtful analytical essays can open new paths into unexplored research areas in the fields of music theory and musicology. Post-secondary instructors may be inspired by the insights offered in these essays to include new works in music theory and history courses at both graduate and upper-level undergraduate levels or in courses on women and music. Finally, for soloists, ensembles, conductors, and music broadcasters, these detailed analyses can offer enriched understandings of this repertoire and suggest fresh new programming possibilities to share with listeners.

Approaches to the Anglo and American Female Epic, 1621-1982 Bernard Schweizer, 2006 Epic has long been regarded as the exclusive domain of the male literary genius and as an incarnation of patriarchal values. This text challenges such a hegemonic stereotype by demonstrating the ways in which women writers have successfully adapted the masculine epic tradition to suit their own needs.

Transiciones Todd Ruecker, 2015-02-15 Transiciones is a thorough ethnography of seven Latino students in transition between high school and community college or university Data gathered over two years of interviews with the students their high school English teachers and their writing teachers and administrators at postsecondary institutions reveal a rich picture of the conflicted experience of these students as they attempted to balance the demands of schooling with a variety of personal responsibilities Todd Ruecker explores the disconnect between students writing experiences in high school and higher education and examines the integral role that writing plays in college Considering the almost universal requirement that students take a writing class in their critical first year of college he contends that it is essential for composition researchers and teachers to gain a fuller understanding of the role they play in supporting and hindering Latina and Latino students transition to college Arguing for situating writing programs in larger discussions of high school college alignment student engagement and retention Transiciones raises the profile of what writing programs can do while calling composition teachers administrators and scholars to engage in more collaboration across the institution across institutions and across disciplines to make the transition from high school to college writing more successful for this important group of students

The Classical Outlook ,2005 Things As They Are Michael Jackson,1996-08-22 The real beauty of this book is that the thinking does not stop deep in the thickets of philosophic references Instead true to the spirit of phenomenology we are provided with provocative accounts of how such thinking flows in contemporary anthropological practice XCP Cross Cultural Poetics In this timely collection thirteen contemporary ethnographers demonstrate the importance of phenomenological and existential ideas for anthropology In emphasizing the link between the empirical and the experiential these ethnographers also explore the relationship between phenomenology and other theories of the lifeworld such as existentialism radical empiricism and critical theory CliffsNotes AP English Language and Composition, 4th Edition Barbara V.
