Selection James L. Farr, Nancy T. Tippins, 2017-03-27 This second edition of the Handbook of Employee Selection has been revised and updated throughout to reflect current thinking on the state of science and practice in employee selection. In this volume, a diverse group of recognized scholars inside and outside the United States balance theory, research, and practice, often taking a global perspective. Divided into eight parts, chapters cover issues associated with measurement such as validity and reliability, as well as practical concerns around the development of appropriate selection procedures and implementation of selection programs. Several chapters discuss the measurement of various constructs commonly used as predictors, and other chapters confront criterion measures that are used in test validation. Additional sections include chapters that focus on ethical and legal concerns and testing for certain types of jobs, e.g., blue collar jobs. The second edition features a new section on technology and employee selection. The Handbook of Employee Selection, Second Edition, provides an indispensable reference for scholars, researchers, graduate students, and professionals in industrial and organizational psychology, human resource management, and related fields.

Situations Stig Ole Johnsen, Thomas Porathe, 2021-07-13 Sensemaking in Safety Critical and Complex Situations Human Factors and Design Human factors based design that supports the strengths and weaknesses of humans are often missed during the concept and design of complex technical systems With the focus on digitalization and automation the human actor is often left out of the loop but needs to step in during safety critical situations This book describes how human factors and sensemaking can be used as part of the concept and design of safety critical systems in order to improve safety and resilience This book discusses the challenges of automation and automated systems when humans are left out of the loop and then need to intervene when the situation calls for it It covers human control and accepts that humans must handle the unexpected and describes methods to support this It is based on recent accident analysis involving autonomous systems that move our understanding forward and supports a more modern view on human errors to improve safety in industries such as shipping and marine The book is for human factors and ergonomists safety engineers designers involved in safety critical work and students Stig Ole Johnsen is a Senior Researcher at SINTEF in Norway He has a PhD from NTNU in Norway with a focus on resilience in complex socio technical systems and has a Master s in Technology Management from MIT NTNU He chairs the Human Factors in Control network HFC in Norway to strengthen the human factors focus during development and implementation of safety critical technology His research interests include meaningful human control to support safety and resilience during automation and digitalization Thomas Porathe has a degree in Information Design from Malardalen University in Sweden He is currently Professor of Interaction Design at the Norwegian University of Science and Technology in Trondheim Norway He specializes in maritime human factors and design of maritime information systems specifically directed towards control room design e navigation and autonomous ships He has been working with e Navigation since 2006 in EU projects such as BLAST EfficienSea MONALISA ACCSEAS SESAME and the unmanned ship project MUNIN He is active in the International Association of Aids to Navigation and Lighthouse Authorities IALA

Reproducing Inequalities in Teaching Stefania Pigliapoco, 2022-12-30 The book analyses how lines of non belonging are traced and how notions of non belonging circulate around and are attached to students from immigrant backgrounds Such circulations coalesce around values and practices linked to gendered ethnic majority middle class norms through which difference is positioned and opposed in hierarchical terms This project analyses the relationship between teachers identities and their attitudes and pedagogic dispositions towards students from immigrant backgrounds showing how these affect each other contributing to their state of non belonging in the educational setting and in the wider society Attention is brought to the pervasive and normalised background of neoliberal ideology permeating the educational environment In examining the problematic relationship between the previous elements the book uncovers the intersectional reproduction of lines of belonging and not belonging While the analysis is centred on a study in Italy it is situated within and provides links to international connections facilitating a wider and global understanding of issues related to social justice The book will be of interest to undergraduate and postgraduate students and researchers across sociology education gender and cultural studies Due to the intersectional approach and the width of the issues explored it will be of use to policymakers and practitioners Balancing Individualism and Collectivism Janet McIntyre-Mills, Norma Romm, Yvonne Corcoran-Nantes, 2017-10-03 This book addresses the social and environmental justice challenge to live sustainably and well It considers the consequences of our social economic and environmental policy and governance decisions for this generation and the next The book tests out ways to improve representation accountability and re generation It addresses the need to take into account the ethical implications of policy and governance decisions in the short medium and long term based on testing out the implications for self other and the environment This book recognizes the negative impact that humans have had on the Earth s ecosystem and recommends a less anthropocentric way of looking at policies and governance The chapters discuss the geologic impact that people have had on the globe both positive and negative and brings awareness to the anthropocentric interventions that have influenced life on Earth during the Holocene era Based on these observations the authors discuss original ideas and critical reviews on ways to govern those who interpret the world in terms of human values and experience and to conduct an egalitarian lifestyle These ideas address the growing rise in the size of the ecological footprints of some at the expense of the majority the growth in unsustainable food choices and of displaced people and the need for a new sense of relationship with nature and other animals among other issues The chapters included in Balancing Individualism and Collectivism Social and Environmental Justice encourage readers to challenge the sustainability agenda of the anthropocentric life Proposed solutions to these unsustainable actions include structuralized interventions and volunteerism through encouragement and education with a focus on protecting current and future generations of life through new governmental etiquette and human cognizance
