Not Remotely Controlled Lee Siegel,2007-08-01 Television has taken firm hold of American life ever since the first flickering images replaced the disembodied voices innocently crackling from the radio Ever present and evolving television thrives at the crossroads of commerce art and entertainment In Not Remotely Controlled cultural critic Lee Siegel collects his reportage and musings on this most hybrid medium Whether chronicling the history of the cop drama revealing the inherent irony in Donald Trump s character on The Apprentice or shedding light on those unheralded gems that Nielsen ratings swept away prematurely Siegel gives each episode series or documentary the attention and respect usually reserved for high art and dusty literature Going far beyond mere pans and praise Siegel has given long overdue attention to America s most pervasive art form television The Animal Catalyst Patricia MacCormack,2014-06-19 The Animal Catalyst deals with the question of what is an animal and also in some instances what is a human It pushes critical animal studies in important new directions it re examines basic assumptions suggests new paradigms for how we can live and function ecologically in a world that is not simply ours It argues that it is not enough to recognise the ethical demands placed upon us by our encounters with animals or to critique our often murderous treatment of them this simply reinforces human exceptionalism Featuring contributions from leading academics lawyers artists and activists the book examines key issues such as How compassion for animals reinforces ideas of what distinguishes human beings from other animals How speciesism and human centrality are built into the legal system How individualist subjectivity works in relation to animals who may not think of themselves in the same way How any consideration of animal others must involve a radical deconstruction of our very notion of the human How art philosophy and literature can both avoid speciesism and deliver the human from subjectivity This volume is a unique project which stands at the cutting edge of both animal rights philosophies and posthuman artistic abstract philosophies of identity It will be of great interest to undergraduates and researchers in philosophy ethics particularly continental philosophy critical theory and cultural studies
