In this book the longitudinal behavior of road vehicles is analyzed. The main emphasis is on the analysis and minimization of the fuel and energy consumption. Most approaches to this problem enhance the complexity of the vehicle system by adding components such as electrical motors or storage devices. Such a complex system can only be designed by means of mathematical models. This text gives an introduction to the modeling and optimization problems typically encountered when designing new propulsion systems for passenger cars. It is intended for persons interested in the analysis and optimization of classical and novel vehicle propulsion systems. Its focus lies on the control oriented mathematical description of the physical processes and on the model based optimization of the system structure and of the supervisory control algorithms. This text has evolved from a lecture series at ETH Zurich. Prerequisites are general engineering topics and a first course in optimal control theory.

It presents changing requirements of industry competitiveness and explains the vital relationships between trade partnerships and industry competitiveness. As well it further examines the interactive relationships between trade partnerships and industry competitiveness. In recent years with decreasing strategic alliances among nations and less visibility of international governance mechanisms e.g. WTO and counter to globalization preferential trade agreements and free trade agreements have proliferated among nations. At the same time industrial competitiveness is becoming a serious strategic policy priority of nations both advanced and emerging economies. Theoretical discussion focuses on the practices of global network capabilities for the top of the pyramid ToP and base of the pyramid BoP. Special focus is on trade partnerships and industry competitiveness in the Asian economies China Japan South Korea India Indonesia three ASEAN nations Vietnam Thailand and Malaysia and Mexico. Extensive industry and firm level case studies discuss ToP and BoP interface capabilities in the form of manufacturing and services life cycle management which extends value creation and delivery of manufacturing and services. This extension integrates the cloud ecosystem such as timely data information knowledge flows via the virtual world and ground value chains such as the flow of complex real goods and services in the visible world.
