The Monkeys

In a forest of Ecuador on South America, a monkey hangs in the trees. It holds its legs, curved like a hook, over a lower branch, while its hands grip the side of the branch above it at a time. The long legs of the monkey hold it in place as it swings its weight. Its palms and feet are green in the heat, giving the animal a greenish color. This helps the monkey hide from its enemies.

Many people "harass" it more slowly when it comes in all. The monkey usually stays in the trees. Since it can move slowly down and climb back up, it is not afraid. On the ground, the long legs make walking difficult. So it "hangs out" in the trees most of the time, eating and sleeping.
