My belief about myself as a learner when I entered the class was a positive one. I attended a college prep school for high school and went to Oregon State University last year. I had plenty of practice with different learning techniques and found what works well for me. I believe I'm more of a visual learner than an auditory learner. It is easier to see a powerpoint and retain the knowledge then listen to a lecture and have the same retention. Entering the class I thought I liked working in groups more than working individually on projects, but that has since changed. I think it is more beneficial to me to work alone because I can get more done. When I entered the class I believed that reading the material closer to the due date was a better idea because I may not remember what I had read if I didn't.

What I have discovered about myself, as a learner over the term is vast. I learned that I can read the material way in advance and just briefly skim over the text and remember just about everything, were as I thought reading closer was more beneficial. I also learned that working in groups really isn't my specialty. I prefer working by myself because I'm able to get a lot more done and not have to worry about other people forgetting their part of the project. I don't like having to worry about other people not following through. I also learned that looking at the daily record in advanced helped me

Students June Keeling, Hazel Chapman, Julie Williams, 2013-10-16 Good writing skills are essential for study but many students find that they struggle to write well Written especially for health and social care students this book demystifies academic writing giving you a better understanding of what good writing looks like and how to achieve it Topics covered in this accessible book include How to plan and write pieces to deadlines How to copyedit and proofread your own work How to develop good writing behaviours and find motivation How to write effective and safe service user records This user friendly guide includes examples of good and bad writing activities to work through handy hints and tips at the end of each chapter and personal experiences from students making it a must read for any health and social care students looking for the skills and confidence to master good academic writing Contributors Michael Baksh Amanda Clarke Elizabeth Cooper James Greaves Dasha Koneva Jane Quigley Victoria Ridgway Dr Carol Lewis Roylance Pat Talbot Richard Williams Mary Williams This book is aimed at students but I am sure that it has an audience beyond that we all need help and encouragement to write Full of practical advice and examples this book will help you to find a writing strategy that works for you and to develop our own style Some simple but very effective ideas are used such as making writing a normal activity just keeping going and not necessarily starting at the beginning Roger Watson Professor of Nursing University of Hull UK The focus of this book is on how to write well As I have argued previously we all need to be reminded of the skills required in order to make a difference to our patient clients and their carers lives Lifelong learning is the way that we update our knowledge skills and competencies But in order to do this effectively we need to have the right skill set The ability to write well is fundamental to our personal and professional learning and this is regardless of what stage we are in our careers Writing is a skill that we use every day be it an email to a friend or an assignment for a course With practice we can develop and refine this essential skill

I particularly like the way the authors encourage us to be critical of our writing this is also something that we can offer to others as critical friends Sian E Maslin Prothero Professor of Nursing Clinical School of Nursing Midwifery and Sir Charles Gairdner Hospital Edith Cowan University Western Australia A Rhetoric of Reflection Kathleen Yancey, 2016-08-15

Reflection in writing studies is now entering a third generation Dating from the 1970s the first generation of reflection focused on identifying and describing internal cognitive processes assumed to be part of composing The second generation operating in both classroom and assessment scenes in the 1990s developed mechanisms for externalizing reflection making it visible and thus explicitly available to help writers Now a third generation of work in reflection is emerging As mapped by the contributors to A Rhetoric of Reflection this iteration of research and practice is taking up new questions in new sites of activity and with new theories It comprises attention to transfer of writing knowledge and practice teaching and assessment portfolios linguistic and cultural difference and various media including print and digital It conceptualizes conversation as a primary reflective medium both inside and outside the classroom and for individuals and collectives and articulates the role that different genres play in hosting reflection Perhaps most important in the work of this third generation is the identification and increasing appreciation of the epistemic value of reflection of its ability to help make new meanings and of its rhetorical power for both scholars and students Contributors Anne Beaufort Kara Taczak Liane Robertson Michael Neal Heather Ostman Cathy Leaker Bruce Horner Asao B Inoue Tyler Richmond J Elizabeth Clark Naomi Silver Christina Russell McDonald Pamela Flash Kevin Roozen Jeff Sommers Doug Hesse The Complete Guide to Studying for your Social Work Degree Patricia Cartney, Jane Bottomley, Steven Pryjmachuk, 2025-04-18 A one stop guide for social work students that offers extensive study support and skills development In this comprehensive guide we cover four key areas all tailored specifically for social work Studying for your Social Work Degree Academic Writing and Referencing Communication Skills and Critical Thinking Skills The compendium includes up to date coverage of all the relevant study skills required to succeed in a social work degree including the structure and culture of a social work degree adopting a reflective and critical approach and how to find your academic voice This book is also packed with tasks and numerous examples to aid student understanding so learners can feel confident that they are fully equipped with all they need to maximise their potential Developing Multilingual Writing Hiroe Kobayashi, Carol Rinnert, 2023-02-14 With millions of people becoming multilingual writers in the globalized digital world this book helps to empower writers to connect with their readers and project their identities effectively across languages social contexts and genres In a series of closely related studies that build on each other we look comprehensively at how writers develop their ability to construct meaning for different audiences in multiple languages This book which draws on various approaches including a social view of writing multicompetence adaptive transfer complex systems theory motivation and translanguaging contributes to on going efforts to integrate differing approaches to multilingual writing research This book focusses on how writer agency control over text construction audience awareness ability to meet expectations of prospective readers and writer identity projection of image of the writer in the text progress as multilingual writers gain more experience across languages The within writer cross sectional text analysis Chapters 2 5 examines 185 essays written in Japanese and English by eight groups of writers from novice to advanced N 103 supplemented by insights from these writers reflections We explore how they employ three kinds of text features discourse types metadiscourse and self representation which relate to their developing agency audience and writer identity in their text construction and propose a new model for writer voice construction based on those features The four case studies Chapters 6 9 focus on five university students and six professionals to examine closely how individual writers agency audience and identity are interrelated in their text construction in two or three languages and diverse genres including academic and creative writing The combined studies provide new insights into multilingual writing development by revealing the close interrelationship among these three principal aspects of writing across languages They also demonstrate the writers multi directional use of dynamic transfer reuse and reshaping for L1 L2 and L3 text construction and the use of mixed languages L1 L2 or L1 L3 translanguaging for composing processes in addition to the creative power of multilingual writers One significant contribution of this book is to provide models of innovative ways to analyze text and new directions for writing research that go beyond complexity accuracy and fluency Categories and detailed examples of text features used for writer voice construction e g specific characteristics of Personal Emergent and Mature Voice are helpful for writing teachers and for developing writers to improve ways of conveying their own intended writer identity to the reader The studies break new ground by extending our analysis of L2 writing to the same writers L1 and L3 writing and multiple genres
