public administration management and service delivery information technology audit and accounting and human rights for administrative justice The second part deals with conceptual issues and describes a number of competing approaches to the administrative justice The third part deals with the application of administrative justice principles to private law disputes while the fourth part deals with the distinctive characteristics of administrative justice in three other jurisdictions The final part deals with current developments in administrative justice and the book concludes with a discussion of legislative and policy developments in the UK The general approach of the book is socio legal and interdisciplinary The chapters adopt a variety of disciplinary perspectives including those derived from political science public policy social policy accounting and information technology as well as from law Although most of the contributors are academics some are practitioners For these reasons the book should be of interest to lawyers particularly those with interests in administrative law and to social scientists particularly those with interests in public administration public policy and public management EBOOK:

Transforming' Children's Services: Social Work, Neoliberalism And The 'Modern' World Paul Garrett, 2009-08-16

This is a forensic dissection of New Labour's approach to transforming children's services Garrett brings together politics policy and plans in a resolutely critical engagement with the futures currently being made both for social workers and for the families and children who may need those services John Clarke Professor of Social Policy The Open University Paul Michael Garrett writes with verve commitment and clarity His new book on transforming Children's Services will make a significant and lasting impression on the social work literature Stephen Webb Director of Institute of the Advanced Study for Humanity IASH University of Newcastle Australia This is an excellent book and one of the best I have read for some time It is a must have for all social work and social policy students and practitioners Policy makers and managers should also read and digest this even though they will probably find large parts an uncomfortable read Steve Rogowski Professional Social Work Dec 2009 Paul Michael Garrett's designedly critical analysis is timely offering a fast paced hard hitting thought provoking critique this book is sure to satisfy those looking for less of surface and more depth explorations I am sure that Transforming Children's Services will become essential reading for social work and social policy students throughout the UK and indeed internationally given that Canada America Australia and New Zealand share in cognate systems of child welfare and protection Karen Broadhurst Critical Social Policy forthcoming 2010 This book provides an accessible overview of the transformation of Children's Services in England In doing this it draws on social theory critical social policy and takes account of developments in other countries Paul Michael Garrett argues that the many changes which have taken place within and beyond Children's Services are related to the politics of Neoliberalism which it is maintained lie at the core of the Change for Children programme Readers will find detailed discussion on The Laming Report which examined the death of Victoria Climbié The case of Baby P Social work's electronic turn and the use of ICTs in Children's Services Controversial plans to introduce Contactpoint a database on all children More pervasive patterns of surveillance How ASBO politics has influenced the transformation agenda So called Problem Families and the measures put in place to respond to such families Controversial plans to set up Social Work Practices for children in public care Transforming Children s Services will be a vital text for social work and social policy students Furthermore the book directly addresses a range of issues of direct concern to practitioners The book will also find an audience amongst academics policy makers and all those who are interested in critical reflection and in applying theoretical insights to practice issues After each chapter a Reflection and Talk box is included to prompt further discussion on the key themes examined

Tracing the Political Matt Flinders, Matt Wood, 2016-06-01 Over the past two decades politicians have delegated many political decisions to expert agencies or quangos and portrayed the associated issues like monetary or drug policy as technocratic or managerial At the same time an increasing number of important political decisions are being removed from democratic public debate altogether leading many commentators to argue that they are part of a crisis of democracy marking the end of politics Tracing the political uses a broad range of international case studies to chart the politicising and depoliticising dynamics that shape debates about the future of governance and the liberal democratic state The book is part of the New perspectives in policy and politics series and will be an important text for students of politics and policy as well as researchers and policy makers

The Politics of Accountability in the Modern State Matthew Flinders, 2017-10-05 This title was first published in 2001 In this compelling work Matthew Flinders examines how far alternative forms of accountability have evolved and the extent to which they remedy the current shortcomings of the parliamentary system Adopting a pluralistic perspective this exploration of the accountability of the core executive is clearly grounded in research methodology thus ensuring the book makes a valid incisive contribution to the literature Features include A detailed study of the location of power and mechanisms of accountability in modern government which challenges the largely prosaic existing literature Useful summaries of the key tensions and trends within constitutional infrastructure A new and refreshing approach to the study of central government Insightful critiques of major governmental policies This intriguing volume will be of interest to undergraduates post graduates and lecturers for courses on legislative studies central government reform public administration British politics and research methods

Balancing the Skills Equation Geoff Hayward, Susan James, 2004-10-27 AGREED WITH AUTHOR Governments worldwide assume that national competitiveness can be improved by developing workforce skills This book critically examines this high skills vision at both policy and practice levels It challenges an oversimplified policy rhetoric that underestimates the complexity of the processes involved in developing a skilled workforce The book focuses on key issues relating to the high skills agenda skills and political economy different investment strategies for producing skills qualification systems and learning A multidisciplinary team of authors from a range of disciplines including economics management and education provides the cross cutting international and comparative analysis Editorial comment links their explorations to wider questions of skill formation processes and overarching questions are addressed through in depth analysis of the roles of higher education apprenticeship and formal school learning in skill formation Balancing the skills equation is important reading for policy makers academics and graduate students interested in social policy education and labour markets It will also be of interest to Vocational Education and Training VET practitioners Geoff Hayward is the Associate Director of the ESRC Research Centre on Skills Knowledge and Organisational Performance SKOPE and a lecturer in Educational Studies at Oxford University His research interests include VET policy and practice basic skills and the changing social and economic role of Higher Education Susan James is a SKOPE Research Officer in the Department of Educational Studies at Oxford University Her research interests include work based learning VET policy and school to work transitions
