Essential Readings in Problem-Based Learning Andrew Walker, Heather Leary, Cindy Hmelo-Silver, 2015-01-15. Like most good educational interventions, problem-based learning (PBL) did not grow out of theory but out of a practical problem. Medical students were bored, dropping out, and unable to apply what they had learned in lectures to their practical experiences. A couple of years later, Neurologist Howard S. Barrows reversed the sequence, presenting students with patient problems to solve in small groups and requiring them to seek relevant knowledge in an effort to solve those problems. Out of his work, PBL was born. The application of PBL approaches has now spread far beyond medical education. Today, PBL is used at levels from elementary school to adult education in disciplines ranging across the humanities and sciences and in both academic and corporate settings. This book aims to take stock of developments in the field and to bridge the gap between practice and the theoretical tradition originated by Barrows that underlies PBL techniques.

Resources in Education, 2001-10. Performance Incentives Matthew G. Springer, 2009-12-01. The concept of pay for performance for public school teachers is growing in popularity and use, and it has resurged to once again occupy a central role in education policy. Performance Incentives: Their Growing Impact on American K-12 Education offers the most up-to-date and complete analysis of this promising yet still controversial policy innovation. Performance Incentives brings together an interdisciplinary team of experts providing an unprecedented discussion and analysis of the pay for performance debate by identifying the potential strengths and weaknesses of tying pay to student outcomes, comparing different strategies for measuring teacher accomplishments, addressing key conceptual and implementation issues, describing what teachers themselves think of merit pay, examining recent examples in Arkansas, Florida, North Carolina, and Texas, and studying the overall impact on student achievement.
