My Day

It was a fantastic summer day in July 1970, in my home town of Newcastle, in the North of Ireland. I was ten years old and enjoying the freedom that the summer brought to me and my sisters. We were allowed by my mother to play all day on the beach, and come home when we were tired or hungry. No one checked up on us, or worried about what we were doing.

The trouble started that morning, when my mother told my younger sister, Grace, to wear her old glasses when going out to play, as her new ones would get broken or lost. She refused and so we left for the beach with Grace in her good Sunday glasses. My mother had warned us "not to come home, if anything happens to them....." We left the house without a care in the world.

We went to our favourite area of the beach, where there was plenty of large stones to step on. These kept the sand out of your shoes, and no one else really wanted to go there. All afternoon we played and swam in the salty

Asian English Language Classrooms Handoyo Widodo, Alistair Wood, Deepti Gupta, 2017-06-14 The teaching of English in the Asian context is always challenging and dynamic because both teachers and learners have diverse linguistic and cultural backgrounds Equally important where English is not widely used outside the classroom English language classrooms are an authentic site of learner engagement For these reasons for all those concerned with contemporary English language teaching ELT in Asia Asian English Language Classrooms Where Theory and Practice Meet provides an account of theoretical orientations and practices in the teaching of English to multilingual speakers whose primary language is not English While covering the fundamental ELT areas e.g. the teaching of language skills educational literature the use of technology in ELT the role of pragmatics in ELT social psychology of the language classroom and language classroom management with which every language teacher and teacher trainer must be concerned this volume showcases how particular orientations shape ELT practices We believe that practicing English teachers must have a heightened awareness of the theory behind their practice At the same time the theoretical stance must be firmly anchored in actual classrooms Containing newly commissioned chapters written by well regarded and emerging scholars this book will appeal not only to beginning teachers or teachers in training but also to established teachers around Asia where English is used as a lingua franca If you are a student teacher of English or an English teacher who would like to see what other progressive teachers like you are doing across Asia this is the book you have been looking for

Chinese Students' Writing in English Maria Leedham, 2014-08-27 Chinese students are the largest international student group in UK universities today yet little is known about their undergraduate writing and the challenges they face Drawing on the British Academic Written English corpus a large corpus of proficient undergraduate student writing collected in the UK in the early 2000s this study explores Chinese students' written assignments in English in a range of university disciplines contrasting these with assignments from British students The study is supplemented by questionnaire and interview datasets with discipline lecturers writing tutors and students and provides a comprehensive picture of the Chinese student writer today Theoretically framed through work within academic literacies and lexical priming

the author seeks to explore what we know about Chinese students writing and to extend these findings to undergraduate writing more generally In a globalized educational environment it is important for educators to understand differences in writing styles across the student body and to move from the widespread deficit model of student writing towards a descriptive model which embraces different ways of achieving success Chinese Students Writing in English will be of value to researchers EAP tutors and university lecturers teaching Chinese students in the UK China and other English or Chinese speaking countries
