The Course Reflection Project Nicole Schonemann, Emily Metzgar, Andrew Libby, 2015-05-01 Service learning is entering a post initiatory phase At tertiary institutions of all types and sizes service learning programs are common and service learning requirements for graduation are growing in popularity Taken together alongside continued faculty interest in effective teaching these factors have raised the visibility and popularity of service learning Now the greater need in service learning is not to prove the need for or efficacy of service learning but to turn the focus squarely back on practice Following established best practice is not enough instructors also need to reflect on how this fits within the specific context and application of each unique course and service learning partnership While there are many excellent resources that detail best practice and showcase exemplary service learning courses faculty reflection and course revision often goes unmentioned In response to the lack of attention on the role of reflection and course revision we convened groups of faculty from a variety of disciplines to reflect deeply on their courses paying specific attention to obstacles and challenges These conversations were converted to articles for this edited collection each chapter representing the process of reflection and revision and serving as a guide to develop effective practice in varied curricular contexts This text contributes to the body of literature on service learning in a unique and practical manner Faculty teaching or interested in teaching service learning classes would benefit from this text as well as university administrators and community service directors involved in service learning at a programmatic and institutional level This book should be marketed to faculty teaching disciplinary service learning classes and service learning pedagogy classes and administrative offices involved in service learning This could be a supplementary text for graduate level pedagogy courses Higher education institutional libraries would benefit from this text as well as the national and state campus compact offices

Experiencing Citizenship Richard M. Battistoni, William E.

Hudson, 2023-07-03 This practical guide is intended for faculty and service learning directors combining the how to information and rigorous intellectual framework that teachers seek What distinguishes this volume is that the contributors are writing for their peers They discuss how service learning can be implemented within political science and what this discipline contributes to the pedagogy of service learning The book offers both theoretical background and practical pedagogical chapters which describe the design implementation and outcomes of political science service learning programs as well as annotated bibliographies program descriptions and course syllabi

Reflections: The Magic, Music And Mathematics Of Raymond Smullyan Raymond M Smullyan, 2015-04-23 This is an exciting if not rambling account of events of Raymond Smullyan's four lives as a mathematical logician musician magician and author together with thoughts that come to his mind as he recalls them This book includes topics from some of Smullyan's twenty six books as well as many of his favorite anecdotes and jokes It also presents some generalizations of theorems of the great logicians Gödel and Tarski and discusses logic in general and how he won his wife with a logic trick Smullyan also relates some of his teaching experiences and expresses his views on mathematical education and how our present textbooks are primarily responsible for its decline About his life as a pianist Smullyan relates a good deal about his experiences with the Piano Society a wonderful organization to which he is a staunch contributor and how he has had such delightful relations with many of its members Last but not least Smullyan recounts how he has known some lovely ladies over the years Developing the Capable Practitioner Dave O'Reilly, Lynne Cunningham, Stan Lester, 2013-04-03 This volume presents an edited compilation of papers about the process of developing capable professionals and practitioners in every field in higher education Current developments are reviewed covering the issues raised in the Dearing Report and the importance of self management is emphasized

Autonomy without Collapse in a Better European Union ,2022-09-05 The European Union s history exhibits numerous episodes in which Member States have sought to re enforce their national autonomy in the face of deepening integration Efforts to re gain autonomy however are often accompanied by legitimate concerns that autonomy will lead to dis integration or will have wider destructive consequences The EU thus faces a dilemma Calls for autonomy cannot all be dismissed as mere populist rhetoric or national egoism but instead represent a legitimate questioning of the degree of uniformity that EU law and politics presently carry At the same time the fear that greater autonomy may carry dis integrative effects is also legitimate uniformity is not an accidental by product of the EU s construction but intrinsically related to its policy goals Giving too much room for autonomy might create an opportunity structure for the loss of collective goods deficits in problem solving and perhaps even to self destruction The EU requires autonomy but in doing so it must also avoid collapse Can it achieve it and if so how Autonomy without Collapse is devoted to exploring innovative answers to this question It draws together scholars in law and political science interested in exploring how to overcome the central dilemma of preserving sustainable yet real autonomy in the future European Union

Developing Reflective TESOL Practitioners Through Teacher Education Andrzej Cirocki, Mark Wyatt, Xuesong (Andy) Gao, 2024-06-26 This textbook provides insights from Asian contexts into how reflective practice is nurtured on Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages TESOL and English Language Teaching ELT teacher education programmes There is increasing recognition worldwide that given the centrality of reflective practice to teachers ongoing professional development supporting teachers to become reflective practitioners should be integral to teacher education programmes Consequently tertiary level courses in areas such as TESOL and ELT tend to promote reflective practice supported by theoretical input from the burgeoning literature on reflection much of which is produced in the West Relatively under represented in the literature are global perspectives on reflective practice there are consequently relatively few accounts as to how reflective practice is embedded in teacher education programmes in different parts of the world including Asia Hence this book addresses a gap Contributing authors from fourteen countries provide insights into the ways in which teachers are helped to grow as reflective practitioners on their teacher education programmes in their unique contexts This textbook showcases how reflective teaching practices are developed supported by frameworks for critical reflection and in interaction with local educational policies These distinctive accounts aid readers in reflecting on the ways in which reflective practice is supported in their own teacher education contexts and in considering ways of enhancing the reflective dimension of their programmes This textbook showcases innovative reflective activities and can be used as a principal text or as supplemental reading on a range of TESOL and ELT teacher education courses
