During the 2016/17 tax year, Ben has employment income of £25,000. In addition to this, Ben has £200,000 invested in a building society account from which he received £10,000 interest. Ben also invested £20,000 in shares in a national bank and he received £1,000 in dividends.

During the 2016/17 tax year, Ben receives the following benefits in kind:

- The private use of a company car. Ben pays £10 per month towards the use of the car. Ben pays nothing towards the fuel of the car, which is paid for by his employer at a cost of £25 per month.
- An interest-free loan of £4,000 in the tax year 2013/14 and an interest-free loan of £7,000 in the 2015/16 tax year. These are the only beneficial loans Ben has received from his employer. On 6 April 2016, Ben made his first capital repayment of £2,000 off the second loan.
- Incidental expenses of £3, £2, £10, £4 and £5 for five consecutive nights away from home in the UK.

Identify the effect on Ben's taxable income in 2016/17 if he had made each of the following changes. Assume that each of the seven changes are the only change that Ben makes to the situation as detailed above.
