The Technological Unconscious in German Modernist Literature Larson Powell, 2008 Even after the end of modernism and postmodernism the grandiose fantasies of artifice and self reference that have informed so much modernist literature still resonate in the social constructivism of current literary and cultural theory in the idea that we can perform or construct identities or social roles without external constraint as if we had consumer choice of self Larson Powell's book posits nature as a limit to such fantasies redefining aesthetic modernity's conception of and relation to nature and therefore its relation to reality He shows how nature no longer the idealized maternally coded Utopia of the Romantics becomes the trace of specific political sexual and technological traumas The book's four chapters center on the representation of nature in German prose and especially poetry by Rainer Maria Rilke Gottfried Benn Bertolt Brecht and Alfred Döblin from the years 1900 to 1945 while making reference to other literatures as well Powell's term the Technological Unconscious refers to a point of intersection between psychoanalysis and social and scientific theories of modernism and also to the philosophical mediation between history and nature a motif important from Kant to Adorno Powell critiques the tendency toward jargon of an often merely rhetorical theory while continuing to develop the philosophical and conceptual inheritance of Continental traditions He analyzes in connection with the works treated the conceptions of subject and system in the theories of Adorno Luhmann and Lacan and their relation to their complement nature The Technological Unconscious is thus an important polemical intervention both in the debates over interdisciplinarity and in those between eclectic culturalist theories such as New Historicism and postcolonialism on the one hand and systems theory and psychoanalysis on the other Book Jacket

Burying the Enemy Tim Grady, 2025-04-29 A fascinating and moving history of the British and German war dead buried on enemy soil in the two world wars Why do societies only remember their own national war dead Today the enemy dead might be largely hidden from view but this wasn't always the case During both world wars Germans and Britons died in their thousands in enemy territory From Berlin to Bath London to Leipzig civilian communities buried the enemy in the closest parish churchyard Perhaps surprisingly local people embraced these graves often caring for them with considerable tenderness Tim Grady explores the history of this curious aspect of postwar community He reveals how as the two states moved bodies to new military cemeteries local people protested at the disturbance of the dead and ties between the bereaved families and those who cared for the graves were severed forever With the enemy out of sight and mind the British and Germans concentrated solely on commemorating their own war dead and their own sacrifices Today s insular public memory of the world wars was only made possible by clearing away signs of the enemy allowing people to tell themselves much simpler narratives of the recent past as a result From Studio to Stage Barbara M. Doscher,2002-06-03 The repertoire files of the late Dr Barbara Doscher in which she noted her tips observations on each particular piece and notes on how to best teach it comprise a unique trove of wisdom unmatched by any other source Laboriously transcribed and annotated by John Nix one of Doscher s students the notes are presented here as a companion volume to her best selling text The Functional Unity of the Singing Voice Entries are divided by broad category art song arias folk songs oratorio musicals etc and are arranged by song title Each entry includes author poet or librettist key s available ranges for each key tessitura difficulty level voice types comments a summary of the text and notes as to genre language and editions available Five comprehensive indexes facilitate searching As a guide to selecting vocal repertoire this book s practical and sometimes colorful comments on each song or aria will assist the vocal instructor in matching the student s ability and range to the appropriate piece This distillation of Barbara Doscher s many years of experience in the teaching studio is a necessary addition to any vocal instructor s collection as well as a valuable resource for the individual singer
