CAFE: An Industrial-Strength Algebraic Formal Method K. Futatsugi, A.T. Nakagawa, T. Tamai, 2000-10-06 This book contains selected papers on the language applications and environments of CafeOBJ which is a state of the art algebraic specification language. The authors are speakers at a workshop held in 1998 to commemorate a large industrial academic project dedicated to CafeOBJ. The project involved more than 40 people from more than 10 organisations of which 6 are industrial. The workshop attracted about 30 talks and more than 70 attendees. The papers in the book however are either heavily revised versions presented at the workshop to reflect recent advancements or research or completely new ones written especially for this book. In this regard the book is not a usual postpublication after a workshop. Also although it is a compendium of papers that are related to CafeOBJ the book is not a manual reference or tutorial of CafeOBJ. Probably the best description is that it is a collection of papers that investigate how to use or to make it easy to use CafeOBJ. Reflecting the diverse nature of the project and its participants most of the authors are participants to the project. The papers put together offer a comprehensive picture from this methodological perspective. Some papers deal with various advanced aspects of the language such as rewriting logic and behavioural logic. For rewriting logic a couple of significant applications were reported. In particular UML now considered de facto standard language for modelling systems is the subject of one paper. For behavioural logic new methodological guidelines are presented. Some papers shed new light on a more traditional paradigm in the language order sorted equational specifications. One paper in particular deal with a way to associate CafeOBJ with object oriented programming. The other papers deal with environments for writing and verifying specifications written in CafeOBJ. Underlying those papers are two major considerations user interfaces for manipulating specifications and systematic supports for proofs. All the environments explained in the papers assume and support distributed computing and de facto standard network technologies such as WWW and http are incorporated.

Strategic International Restaurant

Development: From Concept to Production Camillo, Angelo A., 2021-04-09 Foodservice industry operators today must concern themselves with the evolution of food preparation and service and attempt to anticipate demands and related industry changes such as the supply chain and resource acquisition to not only meet patrons demands but also to keep their competitive advantage. From a marketing standpoint the trend toward a more demanding and sophisticated patron will continue to grow through various factors including the promotion of diverse food preparation through celebrity chefs mass media and the effect of globalization. From an operational standpoint managing and controlling the business continues to serve as a critical success factor. Maintaining an appropriate balance between food costs and labor costs managing employee turnover and focusing on food service quality and consistency are fundamental elements of restaurant management and are necessary but not necessarily sufficient elements of success. This increasing demand in all areas will challenge foodservice operators to adapt to new technologies to new business communication and delivery systems and to new management
