Eating the Ocean Brian Payne, 2022-12-02 During the first half of the twentieth century Canadian fisheries regularly produced more fish than markets could absorb driving down profits and wages To address this both industry and government sought to stimulate domestic consumption via increased advertising In Eating the Ocean Brian Payne explores how government funded marketing called upon Canadian housewives to prepare more seafood meals to improve family health and aid an industry central to Canadian identity and heritage The goal was first to make seafood a central element of a wholesome diet as a solution to a perceived nutritional crisis and second to aid industry recovery and growth while decreasing Canadian fisheries dependency on foreign markets But fishery managers and policymakers fundamentally miscalculated consumer demand wrongly assuming that Canadians could and would eat more seafood Fisheries continued to extract more fish than the environment and the market could sustain and the collapse of the nation's fisheries that we are now seeing has as much to do with failed assessments of market demand as it does with faulty extraction practices Using internal communications between industry leaders and Ottawa bureaucrats as well as advertising and promotional material published in the nation's leading magazines national and local newspapers and radio programming Eating the Ocean traces the flawed understanding of not only supply but demand a misguided gamble that caused fisheries to become the most mismanaged resource economy in early twentieth century Canada

The Real Food Revolution Tim Ryan, 2015-10-13 We Americans love our food It's part of what has made this nation great Our fertile farmlands and the abundance and variety of our agricultural output are the envy of the world For most of our history we lived close to the land food was accessed locally and we processed it in our own kitchens But as our population and economy has boomed in the last century and we concentrated in cities we industrialized our food system with food coming far from home and processed multiple times As foods rich in natural taste declined we relied on high amounts of added sugar fat and salt to entice our palates And it has taken a toll our soil is polluted our practices are unsustainable and our health problems including everything from allergy related disease to obesity are on the rise This has all contributed to historic levels of heart disease stroke diabetes and other causes of preventable death The good news is that people are starting to find solutions They're voting with their pocketbooks for a new kind of food system family farm 21st century style Suburban and urban moms and dads want to know what's in their food and where it comes from No more snack packs Ding Dongs and soda for lunch This revolution is not only in how people eat but also in how they grow distribute shop for and prepare food And the food is better tasting better looking and better for you The Real Food Revolution by Congressman Tim Ryan is a manifesto for this new food movement In it readers will find information on The history and current state of our food systems Myriad negative impacts of our present food practices on our health and our
