Reading: read the first two sections on genetic variation in peromyscus crinitus (last section on the following questions) to understand the principles of the concepts discussed in the lecture.

1. Match each of the following changes in chromosome structure to its definition:

☒ A. Deletion

☐ B. Duplication

☐ C. Inversion

☐ D. Translocation

1a. a section of a chromosome is inserted

1b. a piece of a chromosome is deleted

1c. a segment of one chromosome has moved to a different chromosome

1d. a section of a chromosome appears twice or more times in a row

2. How many genetically different gametes can be produced from a diploid cell with four chromosomes pairs? Explain your answer.

Answer: The number of genetically different gametes that can be produced is equal to 2^n , where n is total number chromosomes pairs. In this case with four chromosomes pairs, the number of possible gametes is 2^4 or 16 genetically different gametes.

3. Although you observed a combination of traits from your parents, you recognize that some traits carry the less frequent chromosomes. For example, both colors and eyes color. Why may some traits be inherited together?

Answer: Traits are inherited together and travel on the same chromosome. For example, color and eye color are inherited together, and a combination of color and eye color is inherited together. Chromosomes travel with the same traits and are inherited together.

4. Describe the alignment of chromosomes during prophase I, write the sequence.

Chromosomes I separate into two and homologous chromosomes align together, called synapsis. This is a synapsis because it shows the pairing between two and results in the double chromosome.

5. How does recombination lead to chromosomal polymorphism? Describe two types of genetic mutations that can result from recombination.
