Population and Ecology

What are the factors that influence the growth of a population? How do these factors interact to determine the population's growth rate? (10 marks)

10/10 (100%) (1 mark)

1. The population dynamics of a species is the study of how the population size of a species changes over time. This is determined by the balance between the birth rate (the number of new individuals added to the population) and the death rate (the number of individuals removed from the population). The birth rate is influenced by factors such as the availability of resources, the sex ratio, and the age structure of the population. The death rate is influenced by factors such as predation, disease, and environmental conditions.

2. The growth rate of a population is the rate at which the population size is increasing.

3. The carrying capacity of a population is the maximum number of individuals that the environment can support.
