Humor, Identity, and Belonging Stephen J. Moody, 2024-04-22 This book presents an ethnographic perspective on the intersection of humor, identity, and belonging. Based on recorded interactions between Americans and Japanese, it explores how beliefs and stereotypes surrounding gaijin (foreigner) identities create various types of humor, such as mockery, sarcasm, and conversational jokes. Through this analysis, the study also discusses how identity-focused humor impacts participants' understandings of interculturality and social belonging. In particular, it argues that while being an outsider can be marginalizing, humor allows cultural differences to become a basis for developing inclusion and social unity, in part through the recognition of shared norms and values.

Investigating Media Discourse ANNE O'KEEFFE, 2006-09-27 Investigating Media Discourse explores spoken interactions in the media, drawing on contemporary sources from the English speaking world including chat shows radio phone ins and political interviews with leaders such as Tony Blair and George W Bush The main theoretical framework used in this work is influenced by Goffman where each media encounter is viewed as a three way participation framework involving the broadcaster interviewee and audience all of whom shape the interaction The spoken media interactions are analysed from this viewpoint to illustrate how they are managed how pseudo relationships are established and maintained and how others are created O Keefe brings together methodologies of discourse analysis conversation analysis and corpus linguistics allowing the media extracts to be explored from different perspectives whilst providing multiple insights Investigating Media Discourse will appeal to students and researchers of applied linguistics english language and media Anne O Keeffe is Lecturer in Applied Linguistics at the Department of English Language and Literature Mary Immaculate College University of Limerick Ireland
