

Population Distributions

How does population distribution affect the outcome?

Why?

Alaska's population is 0.7 million, and it is the largest state in the United States per mile² – proportionally it would 1700,000 people within the same geographical area as Austin, Texas. The average is one of the smallest states and Texas is a population of nearly 3 million. How does the 10,000th most land area are represented statistically? What are the reasons for the high population density in the state and what effect does this representation have on the outcome?
