Reaction-Diffusion Automata: Phenomenology, Localisations, Computation Andrew Adamatzky, 2012-09-11 Reaction diffusion and excitable media are amongst most intriguing substrates. Despite apparent simplicity of the physical processes involved, the media exhibit a wide range of amazing patterns from target and spiral waves to travelling localisations and stationary breathing patterns. These media are at the heart of most natural processes including morphogenesis of living beings, geological formations, nervous and muscular activity, and socio-economic developments. This book explores a minimalist paradigm of studying reaction diffusion and excitable media using locally connected networks of finite state machines, cellular automata, and automata on proximity graphs. Cellular automata are marvellous objects per se because they show us how to generate and manage complexity using very simple rules of dynamical transitions. When combined with the reaction diffusion paradigm, the cellular automata become an essential user-friendly tool for modelling natural systems and designing future and emergent computing architectures. The book brings together hot topics of non-linear sciences, complexity, and future and emergent computing. It shows how to discover propagating localisation and perform computation with them in very simple two-dimensional automaton models. Paradigms, models, and implementations presented in the book strengthen the theoretical foundations in the area for future and emergent computing and lay key stones towards physical embodied information processing systems.

Applied Self-organizing Systems Mikhail Prokopenko, 2007-11-24 This book presents the state of the art in successfully engineered self organizing systems It goes further too to examine ways to balance design and self organization in the context of applications As demonstrated throughout finding this balance helps to deal with diverse practical challenges The case studies described illustrate the richness of the topic and provide guidance on its more intricate areas

Game of Life Cellular Automata Andrew Adamatzky, 2010-06-14 In the late 1960s British mathematician John Conway invented a virtual mathematical machine that operates on a two dimensional array of square cell Each cell takes two states live and dead The cells states are updated simultaneously and in discrete time A dead cell comes to life if it has exactly three live neighbours A live cell remains alive if two or three of its neighbours are alive otherwise the cell dies Conway s Game of Life became the most programmed solitary game and the most known cellular automaton The book brings together results of forty years of study into computational mathematical physical and engineering aspects of The Game of Life cellular automata Selected topics include phenomenology and statistical behaviour space time dynamics on Penrose tiling and hyperbolic spaces generation of music algebraic properties modelling of financial markets semi quantum extensions predicting emergence dual graph based analysis fuzzy limit behaviour and threshold scaling evolving cell state transition rules localization dynamics in quasi chemical analogues of GoL self organisation towards criticality asynchronous implementations The volume is unique because it gives a comprehensive presentation of the theoretical and experimental foundations cutting edge computation techniques and mathematical analysis of the fabulously complex self organized and emergent phenomena defined by incredibly simple rules

Composing Cellular Automata for Modeling N-component Reaction Diffusion Systems Angelica Asra Richardson, 2019 Pattern Formation and Lattice gas Automata Raymond Kapral, 1997 Articles review the diverse recent progress in the theory and development of lattice gas and lattice Boltzmann methods and their applications It features up to date articles takes an interdisciplinary approach including mathematics physical chemistry and geophysics
