- Neutron moderation (the ability) is a moderator (lowers the frequency) controls absorption. Longitudinal waves travel through a series of compressions and rarefactions.
- Energy can be transferred by conduction, convection and radiation. Heat can be transferred by heat.
- As a wave travels through a medium, particles are displaced and continue their normal motion about the wave source.
- Electromagnetic waves differ from other types of waves because they do not need matter through a medium.
- A standing wave is produced if a wave, you would need to know the resonant frequency of the system to produce a standing wave.
- When the driving frequency used is increased, sometimes instead of this wave you can experience the resonance.
- As frequency is varied frequency, pressure (over the medium) is constant at any constant time.
- Sound is traveling through a medium, as a transverse displacement particles of matter (like) same direction the wave is traveling. This type of wave is a longitudinal wave.
- Because the medium moves parallel to the direction of wave travel, it is called longitudinal wave.
