Phenomics John Doonan, Marcos Egea-Cortines, 2018-11-08 Phenomics is an emerging area of research whose aspiration is the systematic measurement of the physical physiological and biochemical traits the phenome belonging to a given individual or collection of individuals Non destructive or minimally invasive techniques allow repeated measurements across time to follow phenotypes as a function of developmental time These longitudinal traits promise new insights into the ways in which crops respond to their environment including how they are managed To maximize the benefit these approaches should ideally be scalable so that large populations in multiple environments can be sampled repeatedly at reasonable cost Thus the development and validation of non contact sensing technologies remains an area of intensive activity that ranges from Remote Sensing of crops within the landscape to high resolution at the subcellular level Integration of this potentially highly dimensional data and linking it with variation at the genetic level is an ongoing challenge that promises to release the potential of both established and under exploited crops Web and Wireless Geographical Information Systems Dieter Pfoser, Ki-Joune Li, 2014-05-17 This book constitutes the refereed conference proceedings of the 13th International Symposium W2GIS 2014 held in Seoul South Korea in May 2014 The 12 revised full papers presented were carefully selected from numerous submissions The program covers a wide range of topics including Communication and Parallel Processing for Geospatial Data Geo Social Net Crowdsourcing and Trajectory Geo Sensor Network Applications of W2GIS Indoor GIS

Readings in Computer Vision Martin A. Fischler, Oscar Firschein, 2014-06-28 The field of computer vision combines techniques from physics mathematics psychology artificial intelligence and computer science to examine how machines might construct meaningful descriptions of their surrounding environment The editors of this volume prominent researchers and leaders of the SRI International AI Center Perception Group have selected sixty papers most published since 1980 with the viewpoint that computer vision is concerned with solving seven basic problems Reconstructing 3D scenes from 2D images Decomposing images into their component parts Recognizing and assigning labels to scene objects Deducing and describing relations among scene objects Determining the nature of computer architectures that can support the visual function Representing abstractions in the world of computer memory Matching stored descriptions to image representation Each chapter of this volume addresses one of these problems through an introductory discussion which identifies major ideas and summarizes approaches and through reprints of key research papers Two appendices on crucial assumptions in image interpretation and on parallel architectures for vision applications a glossary of technical terms and a comprehensive bibliography and index complete the volume
