Gaudin,2025-03-18 Shaped by centuries of migration enslavement freedom colonization and cultural mixture Louisiana Creole identity is often simplified or misunderstood to fit into today s ideas about race and nationality In Sunset Limited An Autobiography of Creole Wendy A Gaudin fearlessly takes on the many meanings of Creole in a lyrical exploration of how this multilayered transnational bilingual and racially expansive history of New Orleans and Louisiana has manifested itself in her own diasporic Creole family When Gaudin s Creole grandparents boarded the Sunset Limited train in Jim Crow era New Orleans they imagined new lives for themselves in the city of Los Angeles The Sunset Limited produced a twentieth century Creole community on the West Coast whose members ate the traditional foods of south Louisiana gathered in one another s homes and churches spoke in the distinctive dialects of the Gulf Coast and taught their children to respect their unique blended ancestry and their centuries long history As an adult yearning to know more about her Creole background Gaudin returned to Louisiana There she began to trace her Creole ancestors back to the time before the Civil War confronting hard truths about the past her grandparents left behind Revisiting the lands of her ancestors diving into the archival record interviewing those who remained in New Orleans and remembering the stories told to her by her elders Gaudin sought answers to questions asked by many whose lives are shaped by migration Why did her people leave their ancestral home What did they lose in the leaving and what did they gain Sunset Limited explores the boundaries of what it means to be Creole how migration shaped Gaudin s family and her community and how this history is remembered and told Incorporating historical narrative oral history biomythography historiography cultural geography autoethnography and poetry Sunset Limited is as multidimensional and dynamic as Louisiana Creoles themselves Weaving together the stories of her mixed race elders the artifacts of her ancestors and memories of her California childhood Gaudin argues that history is not a cold linear record of the past Rather it is a deeply felt understanding of how we are shaped by the movements of our ancestors and of our rich and ever changing relationships with those who came before us A Nation under Our Feet Steven Hahn,2005-04-30 This is the epic story of how African Americans in the six decades following slavery transformed themselves into a political people an embryonic black nation As Hahn demonstrates rural African Americans were central political actors in the great events of disunion emancipation and nation building Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 ,1993 Mennonite Disaster Service Brenda Phillips,2013-11-05 In the aftermath of a traumatic disaster Mennonite Disaster Service arrives to help Established in 1950 associated volunteers have gone into devastated communities to pick up debris muck out homes and launch rebuilding efforts These volunteer efforts have succeeded in building more than homes however Called the therapeutic community by disaster researchers acts of volunteerism can generate healing moments Though most studies see such therapeutic effects happening right after disasters this ethnographic study looks at long term recovery assistance Such extensive commitment results in beneficial consequences for survivors and their communities For Mennonite Disaster Service volunteers serving others reflects deeply upon their historic roots cultural traditions and theological belief system In contrast to the corrosive blaming that erupted after hurricane Katrina and feelings of neglect by those who experienced Rita and Ike the arrival and long term commitment of faith based volunteers restored hope This volume describes and explains how Mennonite Disaster Service organized efforts for the 2005 and 2008 Gulf Coast storms following a well established tradition of helping their neighbors Based on deeply ingrained religious beliefs volunteers went to the coast for weeks sometimes months and often returned year after year The quality of the construction work coupled with the meaningful relationships they sought to build generated trusting partnerships with communities struggling back from disaster Based on five years of volunteer work by Mennonite Disaster Service this volume demonstrates best practices for those who seek to do the same MDR's School Directory ,2001 Official Proceedings at the National Guard Association of the United States General Conference National Guard Association of the United States,National Guard Association of the United States. General Conference,1969 The Churchman ,1927 Holding Back the River Tyler J. Kelley,2022-04-19 A revelatory work of reporting on the men and women wrestling to harness and preserve America s most vital natural resource our rivers The

Mississippi The Missouri The Ohio America's rivers are the very lifeblood of our country We need them for nourishing crops for cheap bulk transportation for hydroelectric power for fresh drinking water Rivers are also part of our mythology our collective soul they are Mark Twain Led Zeppelin and the Delta Blues But as infrastructure across the nation fails and climate change pushes rivers and seas to new heights we've arrived at a critical moment in our battle to tame these often destructive forces of nature Tyler J Kelley spent two years traveling the heartland getting to know the men and women whose lives and livelihoods rely on these tenuously tamed streams On the Illinois Kentucky border we encounter Luther Helland master of the most important and most decrepit lock and dam in America This old dam at the end of the Ohio River was scheduled to be replaced in 1998 but twenty years and 3 billion later its replacement still isn't finished As the old dam crumbles and commerce grinds to a halt Helland and his team must risk their lives using steam powered equipment and sheer brawn to raise and lower the dam as often as ten times a year In Southeast Missouri we meet Twan Robinson who lives in the historically Black village of Pinhook As a super flood rises on the Mississippi she learns from her sister that the US Army Corps of Engineers is going to blow up the levee that stands between her home and the river With barely enough notice to evacuate her elderly mother and pack up a few of her own belongings Robinson escapes to safety only to begin a nightmarish years long battle to rebuild her lost community Atop a floodgate in central Louisiana we're beside Major General Richard Kaiser the man responsible for keeping North America's greatest river under control Kaiser stands above the spot where the Mississippi River wants to change course abandoning Baton Rouge and New Orleans and following the Atchafalaya River to the sea The daily flow of water from one river to the other is carefully regulated but something else is happening that may be out of Kaiser and the Corps control America's infrastructure is old and underfunded While our economy society and climate have changed our levees locks and dams have not Yet to fix what's wrong will require more than money It will require an act of imagination With meticulous research and insightful analysis Publishers Weekly Holding Back the River brings us into the lives of the Americans who grapple with our mighty rivers and through their stories suggests solutions to some of the century's greatest challenges
