Challenging Territoriality in Human Rights Law Wouter

Vandenhoe, 2015-06-19 Human rights have traditionally been framed in a vertical perspective with the duties of States confined to their own citizens or residents Interpretations of international human rights treaties tend either to ignore or downplay obligations beyond this territorial space This edited volume challenges the territorial bias of mainstream human rights law It argues that with increased globalisation and the impact of international corporations organisations and non State actors human rights law will become less relevant if it fails to adapt to changing realities in which States are no longer the only leading actor Bringing together leading scholars in the field the book explores potential applications of international human rights law in a multi duty bearer setting The first part of the book examines the current state of the human rights obligations of foreign States corporations and international financial institutions looking in particular at the ways in which they address questions of attribution and distribution of obligations and responsibility The second part is geared towards the identification of common principles that may underpin a human rights legal regime that incorporates obligations of foreign States as well as of non State actors As a marker of important progress in understanding what lies ahead for integrating foreign States and non State actors in the human rights dutybearer regime this book will be of great interest to scholars and practitioners of international human rights law public international law and international relations

Human Rights Due Diligence and Labour Governance Ingrid Landau,2023-10-30 Human rights due diligence HRDD has emerged as a dominant frame through which to conceptualise and operationalise responsible business conduct with respect to workers rights in global supply chains Legislation mandating HRDD is now found in several European countries and across various national regulatory agendas Many scholars practitioners and activists are actively calling for further legalisation believing that this will broaden respect for human rights Yet to date there has been little sustained scholarly analysis from a labour rights perspective Observing that HRDD as originally articulated in the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights is open to multiple interpretations this book examines global debates on the role and status of the concept It also considers the implications of HRDD's ascension for transnational labour law as a distinct field of law scholarship and activism Combining insights from transnational governance and business regulation with empirical analysis this book argues that HRDD is not being institutionalised at either the global or national level in a way that renders it a transformative or even robust mechanism of transnational labour law It also draws attention to the important but largely overlooked ways in which the rise of HRDD is leading to subtle shifts in the configuration of actors and institutions in labour governance

Normative Spaces and Legal Dynamics in Africa Katrin Seidel, Hatem Elliesie, 2020-06-09 African legal realities reflect an intertwining of transnational regional and local normative frameworks institutions and practices that challenge the idea of the sovereign territorial state This book analyses the novel constellations of governance actors and conditions under which they interact and compete The work follows a spatial approach as the emphasis on normative spaces opens avenues to better understand power relations processes of institutionalization and the production of legitimacy and normativities themselves Selected case studies from thirteen African countries deliver new empirical data and grounded insights from and into particular normative spaces The individual chapters explore the interrelationships between various normative orders diverse actors and their influences The encounters between different normative understandings and actors open up space and multiple forums for negotiating values The authors analyse how different doctrines institutions and practices are constructed contested negotiated and adapted in translation processes and thereby continuously reshape Africa s multidimensional normative spaces The volume delivers nuanced views of jurisprudence in Africa and presents an excellent resource for scholars and students of anthropology legal geography legal studies sociology political sciences international relations African studies and anyone wishing to gain a better understanding of how legal constellations are shaped by unreflected assumptions about the state and the rule of law
