A. Leak,1999-01-01 Domestic livestock in Africa are of importance not only as a source of milk and meat but also as a source of animal traction enabling farmers to cultivate larger areas with crops providing the staple foods Trypanosomosis a parasitic disease transmitted cyclically by the tsetse fly Glossina spp is arguably still the main constraint to livestock production on the continent preventing full use of the land to feed the rapidly increasing human population

Sleeping sickness the disease caused in humans by species of Trypanosoma is an important and neglected disease posing a threat to millions of people in tsetse infested areas Often wrongly thought of as a disease of the past the prevalence of human sleeping sickness is increasing in many areas Although alternative methods to control the disease are being investigated such as immunological approaches use of chemotherapy or exploitation of the trypanotolerance trait it is only control or eradication of the tsetse fly vector which will remove the threat of the disease rather than providing a better means of living with it As a result of the economic impact of tsetse transmitted Trypanosomosis a large amount of research literature has been produced This book provides a comprehensive review of this literature The text is divided into four parts tsetse biology and ecology epidemiology vector control and control of trypanosomosis The book is invaluable for medical and veterinary entomologists parasitologists and epidemiologists
