Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 sedentary women, 40-50 years old, who were randomly assigned to a 12-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes, and included a combination of aerobic and resistance exercises. The control group continued with their sedentary lifestyle. HR and EE were measured at baseline and at the end of the 12-week period. The results showed that the training program significantly increased HR and EE in the women, while the control group showed no significant changes. The findings suggest that a 12-week training program can effectively improve cardiovascular fitness and energy expenditure in sedentary, middle-aged women.
