

Task 1: Linear Regression

10/10/2024

Introduction

Linear regression is a statistical method used to model the relationship between a dependent variable and one or more independent variables. It assumes a linear relationship between the variables. The model is estimated by minimizing the sum of the squared residuals (the difference between the observed and predicted values). The resulting model can be used to predict the value of the dependent variable for a given value of the independent variable.

Mathematical Formulation

$$Y = \beta_0 + \beta_1 X + \epsilon$$

Where Y is the dependent variable, X is the independent variable, β_0 is the intercept, and β_1 is the slope.

Assumptions

- Linearity: The relationship between the independent and dependent variables is linear.
- Independence: The observations are independent of each other.
- Homoscedasticity: The variance of the residuals is constant across all values of the independent variable.
- Normality: The residuals are normally distributed.
