An Irresistible History of Southern Food Rick McDaniel, 2011-05-14 Fried chicken, rice, and gravy, sweet potatoes, collard greens, and spoon bread—all good, old-fashioned down-home southern foods, right? Wrong. The fried chicken and collard greens are African; the rice is from Madagascar; the sweet potatoes came to Virginia from the Peruvian Andes via Spain; and the spoon bread is a marriage of Native American corn with the French soufflé technique, thought up by skilled African American cooks. Food historian Rick McDaniel takes 150 of the South's best-loved and most delicious recipes and tells how to make them and the history behind them. From fried chicken to gumbo to Robert E. Lee Cake, it's a history lesson that will make your mouth water. What southerners today consider traditional southern cooking was really one of the world's first international cuisines, a mélange of European, Native American, and African foods and influences brought together to form one of the world's most unique and recognizable cuisines.
