Dimitriou, 2013-06-26 Cities within the developing world experience a form of urban development which is different to those in more industrialised countries Rates of growth are usually much more dramatic housing and transport are often provided informally and institutional support for urban management is also much weaker The crux of this book first published in 1990 lies in the idea that urban transport planning cannot be viewed in isolation from this wider development context Making special reference to a number of countries including Brazil India and Indonesia chapters discuss problems of urban transport planning deficiencies in the theory and practice of conventional transport planning and the emerging alternatives in the countries under examination This work addresses problems that are still of great concern to urban policy planners professionals and academics as well as students from the fields of development studies urban geography and planning architecture and civil engineering

Progress in Rural Geography (Routledge Revivals) Michael Pacione, 2014-06-03 This wide ranging volume first published in 1983 reflects the increasing scope of the field of rural geography in the second half of the twentieth century Although traditional areas of study such as agriculture and the land use patterns of the countryside remained important scholars also began to consider rural transport employment housing and policy as well as to develop new theories and methodologies for application to study The chapters included here addressed the need for a review of the changes that had taken place within the field of rural geography and as such provide an essential background to students with an interest in rural demography planning and agriculture

Remaking Cities (Routledge Revivals) Alison Ravetz, 2013-10-08 This book published in 1980 is an iconoclastic account of one of the pillars of the welfare state British town and country planning between 1945 and 1975 Always a fine balance between central control and market forces it was challenged by strains within and between the environmental professions and protest by people dispossessed or alienated by re shaped urban environments Remaking Cities critiques the export of western style planning to the developing world and reviews initiatives rooted in different understandings of growth appearing in those years Nearly forty years on many of the same issues beset us notably the depressingly familiar inner city problem despite countless reports funds and programmes But now our infrastructure and services once publicly owned are privatised and fragmented and local government progressively relegated The very core of planning development control is being pared in a struggle to regain the growth which led to our current crisis This gives fresh importance to the need for new modes of creating liveable sustainable environments emphasised in this important work

Regions in Question (Routledge Revivals) Charles Gore, 2013-12-19 Originally published in 1984 Regional development planning has grown rapidly in recent years as both an academic specialism and a focus of policy and practice Books and articles on the subject have proliferated and all across the Third World governments have become committed to it setting up large new departments and even ministries Charles Gore argues that this growing popularity of regional planning in developing countries is profoundly paradoxical

Self-Organisation Shapes Travel Behaviours and Social Exclusion in Deprived Urban Neighbourhoods of China Joseph Cho-yam Lau, 2020-03-19 This book investigates the influence of self organisation processes on the commuting of the poor workers in urban China It suggests a new approach to investigate and measure individual access and it argues that dynamic interactions between individual action and social structure influence individual s access to transport which cannot be measured using other traditional accessibility approaches The overwhelming majority of models in transport research assume that socio economic factors and the built environment influence the accessibility of transport for individuals This book provides evidence that individual decision makings and actions are also vital factors to bring out changes in accessibility Further the study adopts a self organisation process and structuration theory to illustrate that a significant proportion of travel problems of migrants are rooted in the interaction between actions and social structures Any change in migrants actions or social structures in the self organisation process would result in the production of complex and spontaneous travel behaviour The self organisation approach presented provides a new approach for urban transport planning in the future particularly on the investigation of the accessibility of disadvantaged social groups By using the social theories transport research can have an effect on commuting behaviour and to improve poor workers quality of life International Encyclopedia of Transportation, 2021-05-13 In an increasingly globalised world despite reductions in costs and time transportation has become even more important as a facilitator of economic and human interaction this is reflected in technical advances in transportation systems increasing interest in how transportation interacts with society and the need to provide novel approaches to understanding its impacts This has become particularly acute with the impact that Covid 19 has had on transportation across the world at local national and international levels Encyclopedia of Transportation Seven Volume Set containing almost 600 articles brings a cross cutting and integrated approach to all aspects of transportation from a variety of interdisciplinary fields including engineering operations research economics geography and sociology in order to understand the changes taking place Emphasising the interaction between these different aspects of research it offers new solutions to modern day problems related to transportation Each of its nine sections is based around familiar themes but brings together the views of experts from different disciplinary perspectives Each section is edited by a subject expert who has commissioned articles from a range of authors representing different disciplines different parts of the world and different social perspectives The nine sections are structured around the following themes Transport Modes Freight Transport and Logistics Transport Safety and Security Transport Economics Traffic Management Transport Modelling and Data Management Transport Policy and Planning Transport Psychology Sustainability and Health Issues in Transportation Some articles provide a technical introduction to a topic whilst others provide a bridge between topics or a more future oriented view of new research areas or challenges The end result is a reference work that offers researchers and practitioners new approaches new ways of thinking and novel solutions to problems All encompassing and expertly authored this outstanding reference work will be essential reading for all students and researchers interested in transportation and its global impact in what is a very uncertain world Provides a forward looking and integrated approach to transportation Updated with future technological impacts such as self driving vehicles cyber physical systems and big data analytics Includes comprehensive coverage Presents a worldwide approach including sets of comparative studies and applications
