

Laboratory Activity #1 — Student Answer Packet

Relationships and Biodiversity

A Laboratory Activity for the Living Environment

Introduction

Botana curus is a valuable plant because it produces Curol, a compound used for treating certain kinds of cancer. Curol cannot be produced in the laboratory. Botana curus grows very slowly and is on the endangered species list, so its ability to provide Curol in large quantities is limited.

Species that are more closely related to Botana curus are more likely to produce the important substance Curol. Three similar plant species that are plentiful (X, Y, and Z) may be related to Botana curus. You will work as a researcher to:

- gather structural and molecular evidence to determine which plant species is most closely related to the hypothetical species, Botana curus
- use this evidence to decide which plant species is most likely to serve as a source of the important substance Curol

Safety

- You will need to wear goggles while conducting Tests 4 and 5.
- Do not eat or drink anything in the laboratory while doing this laboratory activity.

Important Note: Record all of your data and answers on these laboratory sheets. You will need to keep them for review before the Regents Examination. Later, you will need to transfer your answers to a separate Student Answer Packet. Your teacher will use the packet in grading your work, and the school will retain it as evidence of your completion of the laboratory requirement for the Living Environment Regents Examination.

Structural Evidence for Relationships

Perform the following tests and record your observations in Table 1 on page 8 of this packet. Use a hand lens or microscope as needed.

Test 1—Structural Characteristics of Plants

- a. Do not remove the plant samples from the plastic bags/cards.
- b. Compare the structural characteristics of the plant samples. Record your observations in Table 1 (see page 8).

Test 2—Structural Characteristics of Seeds

- a. Do not remove the seed samples from the plastic bags/cards.
- b. Compare the structural characteristics of the seed samples. Record your observations in Table 1.

Effects of Non-Random Sources of Alteration on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Functioning Tian Zhao, Chuanbo Guo, Chao Wang, Chunsheng Liu, Paraskevi Manolaki, 2023-11-15 Understanding how biological diversity affects ecosystem functioning is a key question in modern ecology This is of particular importance in the general context of recent global changes caused by human activities such as water abstraction flow regulation shifts in agricultural practices contamination climate changes and biological invasions These changes are affecting biodiversity ecosystem functioning and their complex interactions simultaneously However our ability to understand how genes individuals populations communities and ecosystems may respond to such changes is limited despite ecologists frequently being requested to provide policymakers and managers with predictions Indeed the species that composed biodiversity can establish complex trophic links between them in the ecosystems This structure of food webs is under the permanent constraint of community dynamics which connects species populations communities and ecosystems Therefore the response of food webs to perturbations can help ecologists to better understand the relationship between biological diversity and ecosystem functioning

Key Determinants of Biodiversity, Ecosystem Functioning and Restoration in Climate Change Sensitive Ecosystems Hui Zhang, Xiang Liu, Robert John, 2023-11-27 Human activities such as agriculture and mining have led to serious negative effects on biodiversity and important ecosystem services including biodiversity loss and climate change Thus it is important to quantify the key determinants of biodiversity ecosystem functioning and ecological restoration of degraded plant communities in climate change sensitive ecosystems i e subalpine and alpine meadow communities in Qinghai tropical rainforests and tropical mountains In this way effective management policy and methods can be developed to reduce the influence of climate change on these climate change sensitive ecosystems The aforementioned human activities continue to destroy and degrade plant communities and ecosystem functioning Climatic changes further exacerbate negative impacts and may trigger rapid loss of species precipitate decline and changes in the flows of ecosystem goods and services As the collective anthropogenic influence intensifies some ecosystems may be more sensitive than others to these changes Ecosystems that contribute greatly to human well being through the delivery of biodiversity and ecosystem benefits should be the focus of particular concern There are key knowledge gaps on the specific nature of anthropogenic impacts species and ecosystem responses and possible management and mitigation measures Comprehensive documentation of these aspects from highly sensitive regions and ecosystems is urgently needed particularly at fine scales which is relevant for developing management and mitigation measures Pathways such as ecological restoration can offset some of the impacts but even quantifying the impacts of observed and anticipated changes is far from adequate and other mitigation measures must be considered

Nature's Tapestry: Uncovering the Beauty and Importance of Biodiversity Juan Armando Sánchez,2023-10-09 We cannot separate human beings from biodiversity Our vital functions and our health are synergistic with other species The number of microorganisms we live with is greater than the total number of cells in our bodies So separation from biodiversity and its loss are the greatest threats to human survival and the current model for human development affects our very lives We must integrate marine and terrestrial life to understand our interdependence with biodiversity Colombia a megadiverse country with access to two oceans is the perfect canvas on which to illustrate this message nature has sustainable and straightforward solutions to society s emerging problems The new challenges of a changing environment raise increasingly relevant questions that we must address to prosper as individuals and as a society Can we prevent a new pandemic of viral origin How will we feed a constantly growing population How will the extinction of biological species affect us Do we function the same as all other living beings Are our bodies entire ecosystems for other species Is there a better model for economic development This book presents an approach to these discussions based on Colombia s biodiversity to uncover biodiversity s beauty and importance our nature s tapestry What we have here is an opportunity that we cannot miss

Aquatic Biodiversity II H. Segers, K. Martens, 2005-07-26 Water is Life Freshwater is one of the most valuable commodities on our planet and this resource should be managed in a sustainable way Yet we are less than careful in the way we use water and many of our non marine aquatic habitats are threatened by anthropogenic impacts Eutrophication for example could well turn into one of the major social as well as economic problems of the 21st century Reduction of water quality also has a profound effect on the biota that depend on these water bodies such as micro organisms plants and animals Freshwater Biodiversity is a much underestimated component of global biodiversity both in its diversity and in its potential to act as models for fundamental research in evolutionary biology and ecosystem studies Freshwater organisms also reflect quality of water bodies and can thus be used to monitor changes in ecosystem health The present book deals with all of these aspects of Aquatic Biodiversity It comprises a unique collection of primary research papers spanning a wide range of topics in aquatic biodiversity studies and including a first global assessment of specific diversity of freshwater animals The book also presents a section on the interaction between scientists and science policy managers A target opinion paper lists priorities in aquatic biodiversity research for the next decade and several reactions from distinguished scientists discuss the relevance of these items from different points of view fundamental ecology taxonomy and systematics needs of developing countries present day biodiversity policy at European and at global scales It is believed that such a platform for the interaction between science and science policy is an absolute necessity for the efficient use of research budgets in the future
