

Learning Objectives Define what birth, death, and life events are, how they are related to birth rates and death rates, aspects of population growth, and factors that influence birth rates, death rates, and growth rates.

Types of Population Dynamics		Factors	Effects
Density-Independent Growth		An organism is not constrained either in reproduction or in survival by crowding or other population factors
Density-Dependent Growth	Factor 1	An organism is constrained either in reproduction or in survival by crowding or other population factors
	Factor 2	Resource Limitation
	Factor 3	Self-Regulation of the population is involved

Lesson Summary

Describing Populations

Life table Estimates how an organism's early population. The graph showing its population growth is called a population curve. It shows growth rate, density, and other characteristics over time.

Change after 100 years This graph is a population curve showing the growth of a population of 100 individuals over 100 years. The graph shows that the population is increasing rapidly, and that the growth rate is increasing over time. The graph also shows that the population is growing faster than the carrying capacity of the environment.

Carrying Capacity The number of organisms that an environment can support is called its carrying capacity. The carrying capacity of an environment is determined by the amount of resources available to the organisms. The carrying capacity of an environment can change over time as resources are used up or as the environment changes.

Foundations for Population Health in Community/Public Health Nursing - E-Book Marcia Stanhope, Jeanette Lancaster, 2021-10-08

Master the essentials of health promotion in community and public health nursing. Foundations for Population Health in Community Public Health Nursing 6th Edition provides clear, concise coverage of the nurse's role in preventing disease, promoting health, and providing health education in community settings. Case studies and critical thinking activities make it easier to apply concepts to community nursing practice. New to this edition are Healthy People 2030 guidelines and coverage of the latest issues, trends, and approaches. Written by well-known nursing educators Marcia Stanhope and Jeanette Lancaster, this streamlined text covers the fundamentals of designing effective nursing strategies for vulnerable and special populations. Focus on health promotion throughout the text emphasizes initiatives, strategies, and interventions that promote the health of the community. QSEN boxes illustrate how quality and safety goals, competencies, objectives, knowledge, skills, and attitudes can be applied in nursing practice in the community. Levels of Prevention boxes identify specific nursing interventions at the primary, secondary, and tertiary levels, reinforcing the concept of prevention as it relates to community and public health care. Applying Content to Practice boxes highlight how chapter content is applied to nursing practice in the community. Practice Application scenarios present practice situations with questions and answers to help you apply concepts to community practice. Genomics coverage provides a history of genetics and genomics and how they impact public community health nursing care. Coverage of ongoing health care reform issues includes the impact of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act of 2010 (ACA) on public health nursing. Evidence Based Practice boxes highlight current research findings, their application to practice, and how community public health nurses can apply the study results. NEW COVID-19 pandemic information has been added.
