Climate Hazard Crises in Asian Societies and Environments Troy Sternberg,2017-01-20 Climate hazards are the world s most widespread deadliest and costliest natural disasters Knowledge of climate hazard dynamics is critical since the impacts of climate change population growth development projects and migration affect both the impact and severity of disasters Current global events highlight how hazards can lead to significant financial losses increased mortality rates and political instability This book examines climate hazard crises in contemporary Asia identifying how hazards from the Middle East through South and Central Asia and China have the power to reshape our globalised world In an era of changing climates knowledge of hazard dynamics is essential to mitigating disasters and strengthening livelihoods and societies across Asia By integrating human exposure to climate factors and disaster episodes the book explores the environmental forces that drive disasters and their social implications Focusing on a range of Asian countries landscapes and themes the chapters address several scales province national regional different hazards drought flood temperature storms dust environments desert temperate mountain coastal and issues vulnerability development management politics to present a diverse comprehensive evaluation of climate hazards in Asia This book offers an understanding of the challenges climate hazards present their critical nature and the effort needed to mitigate climate hazards in 21st century Asia Climate Hazard Crises in Asian Societies and Environments is vital reading for those interested and engaged in Asia s development and well being today and will be of interest to those working in Geography Development Studies Environmental Sciences Sociology and Political Science

Linking Gender to Climate Change Impacts in the Global South Shouraseni Sen Roy,2018-04-18 This authored book assesses the spatial patterns of climate change and gender inequalities across the Global South and analyzes the disproportionate impacts that climate change processes have on women in these regions Though many books attempt to incorporate gender issues into climate change this book examines the issue as a whole by addressing the relationship between climate change and gender from a number of perspectives The book incorporates case studies from various regions of the Global South a designation broadly defined as the countries of Africa Middle and South America and most of Asia including the Middle East In the book s two main sections readers will learn about how climate change affects access to regional opportunities and resources the obstacles created by climate change that affect women more strongly than men and how affected female populations adapt to changing conditions and protect their local livelihoods Section one covering chapters 1 and 2 addresses the spatial patterns of climate change and gender inequalities inequities across the Global South by analyzing long term trends from the latest reports of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC and the World Economic forum Section two covering chapters 3 through 7 discusses the critical issues related to climate change and gender inequality and presents literature reviews and case studies in the Global South The different issues and perspectives discussed include health water and food security education conflicts migration participation in decision making processes and changing urban social landscapes The concluding chapter discusses policy initiatives and makes recommendations to some of the gender mainstreaming through empowerment and participation This interdisciplinary book will appeal to academics and policy makers beyond just the fields of environmental sciences and gender studies and may be adopted as a resource for graduate students and researchers

Environmental Sustainability in Building Design and Construction Xiaoming Wang, Sayanthan Ramakrishnan, 2022-01-01 This monograph offers analyses of construction activities using various key concepts and assessments of sustainable development and provides students and researchers with methodologies and design aspects for the sustainable development of the built environment Additionally the book demonstrates various national and international policies for assisting architects engineers and policy makers in understanding the relevant decision making approaches to sustainable development in construction The book begins by reviewing the background of sustainability and sustainable development The focus then turns to the effects of climate change on the built environment including impacts of energy and carbon emissions as well as constraints on water and waste management The remaining chapters discuss the necessary approaches to achieve sustainable waste management energy efficient building design and resilience and adaptation in the built environment In eight chapters the book encourages readers to think independently logically and objectively about the complex issues presented by the applications of sustainable development in construction including resource efficiency environmental impacts human health building economics and social development Wildland Fire, Forest Dynamics, and Their Interactions

Natural Hazard Uncertainty Assessment Karin Riley, Peter Webley, Matthew Thompson, 2016-12-12 Uncertainties are pervasive in natural hazards and it is crucial to develop robust and meaningful approaches to characterize and communicate uncertainties to inform modeling efforts In this monograph we provide a broad cross disciplinary overview of issues relating to uncertainties faced in natural hazard and risk assessment We introduce some basic tenets of uncertainty analysis discuss issues related to communication and decision support and offer numerous examples of analyses and modeling approaches that vary by context and scope Contributors include scientists from across the full breath of the natural hazard scientific community from those in real time analysis of natural hazards to those in the research community from academia and government Key themes and highlights include Substantial breadth and depth of analysis in terms of the types of natural hazards addressed the disciplinary perspectives represented and the number of studies included Targeted application centered analyses with a focus on development and use of modeling techniques to address various sources of uncertainty Emphasis on the impacts of climate change on natural hazard processes and outcomes Recommendations for cross disciplinary and science transfer across natural hazard sciences This volume will be an excellent resource for those interested in the current work on uncertainty classification quantification and will document common and emergent research themes to allow all to learn from each other and build a more connected but still diverse and ever growing community of scientists Read an interview with the editors to find out more <https://eos.org/editors-vox-reducing-uncertainty-in-hazard-prediction> Climate Change Adaptation in the Built Environment Chamindi Malalgoda,Dilanthi Amaratunga,Richard Haigh,Shavindree Nissanka,Nishara Fernando,Ruben Paul Borg,Mo Hamza,2025-05-02 Global climate change is one of the greatest environmental threats facing humanity and it is affecting every country on every continent Recent evidence confirms a close liaison between climate change induced hazards and the built environment as the built environment demonstrates a high fragility and vulnerability to hazardous situations The impact of climate change is particularly pertinent to the built environment given the life expectancy of buildings and the fact that it is essential to adapt the existing built environment to deal with a climate that may be significantly different from that in which it evolved Coastal regions are highly vulnerable to climate change because in addition to changes in temperature precipitation and more frequent flooding they will be affected by rising sea levels wave heights and accelerated coastal erosion The built environment exerts considerable influence over coastal communities local climate and environment Coastal areas also tend to be highly populated with many vulnerable urban centres located near the coastal belt In addressing such challenges it is important to better understand the impacts of climate change on the built environment and to develop tangible climate adaptation measures for the built environment
