

The Reformation was a major movement in the 16th century that led to the creation of new Protestant churches. It began in 1517 when Martin Luther posted his 95 Theses on the door of the Castle Church in Wittenberg, Germany. Luther's ideas challenged the authority of the Pope and the Catholic Church's teachings. His ideas spread quickly, and many people began to question the Catholic Church's practices and beliefs. This led to the formation of new Protestant churches, such as the Lutheran Church, the Calvinist Church, and the Anglican Church. The Reformation also led to the development of new religious and political ideas, such as the concept of individualism and the separation of church and state.
