The two 1940s publications, Antennae (1942) and Antennae and the Antennae (1944), were also written by Kottler. These titles need no further comment.

1. The first step in the process of identifying a problem is to recognize that a problem exists. This is often done by comparing current performance with a desired state or goal. If there is a discrepancy, a problem is identified. For example, if a company's sales are declining while its expenses are increasing, this would indicate a problem that needs to be addressed.
